These facts were disclosed here today in the biennial budget recommendations of E. B. Meek, director of public works, to the state highway commission.

$9,082,275 For North Northern California counties will receive a total of $9,082,275 for highway construction funds, made possible by the new gas tax increase of one cent a gallon, adopted by the last legislature and approved by Governor Young.

For primary road projects (54.7 per cent of 75 per cent of money raised under bill) $4,194,775.

DISTINGUISHED AMERICANS TO ATTEND PAN AMERICA PARLEY

(By LOUIS J. HEATH)

HAVANA, Jan. 12.—The vanguard of the greatest gathering Havana has ever boasted is arriving here for the Sixth Pan American congress, which opens January 16, to discuss questions affecting the future of the western hemisphere.

The fact of the promised attendance of President and Mrs. Coolidge and Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg would make this the greatest gathering of American statesmen since the first Pan American conference in 1889.

The delegates and visitors will find Pan Americanism at a turning point and with a choice to be made of a future either non-political or political.

The five preceding Pan American conferences have dealt principally with economic, commercial and humanitarian problems.

Today, however, finds the American nations facing an increasing complexity of political problems. Whether or not it would be wise to attempt to solve them through the medium of this conference is hardly spoken, but none the less, the thought in the minds of the delegates.

Charles Evans Hughes, former secretary of state of the United States, heads the delegation from the republic of the Americas. He is, in addition, to be surrounded by what many believe to be the most distinguished group ever sent by the American government to an international meeting.

The other members are Henry B. Fletcher, American ambassador to Italy, who has held diplomatic posts in Cuba, Mexico and Chile; Oscar W. Underwood, former Democratic senator from Alabama and a prominent contender for the four years ago; Dwight W. Morrow, American ambassador to Mexico; Noble B. Judah, American Ambassador to Cuba; former Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, of New York; James Brown Scott, secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace; Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Leland Stanford university, and Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director-general of the Pan American union, in Washington.

The United States delegation will meet and mingle with the flower of diplomats, statesmen, scholars and jurists from other countries. Heading the Cuban delegation is Dr. Antonio Sanchez de Sustantane, eminent jurist and a judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice, at The Hague. Another Cuban is Dr. Orestes Ferrara, Cu-

Two Columbus Girls Stabbed By Ohio Ripper

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 12.—Two girls were attacked by a "ripper" and slashed with a long slender knife here last night. The two were in a hospital today and their conditions were reported as serious.

A third girl, sister of one of those attacked, was on the verge of a nervous collapse.

The man first attacked Thelma Weaver, 13-year-old high school girl. She was going to her home on the west side when the man suddenly pounced upon her. He snatched her arm and stabbed her in the back, she said.

The "ripper" fled when she screamed. While police were searching for him he was stalking two other girls, Lulu, 15, and Mabel Thompson, 18, a few blocks from where Thelma was attacked.

As the sisters turned into an unlighted street, the fiend silently came up behind them. He brought the knife down Lulu's neck, missing the jugular vein by half an inch. Mabel fled screaming and the ripper disappeared.

Although both girls will recover, they, with the girl who escaped, were in a highly nervous state early this morning. The Weaver girls' back bears a six-inch slash. A five-inch gash was made in Miss Thompson's neck and back. She was in a dangerous condition from loss of blood.

JULIAN TRIAL GOES INTO SECOND WEEK

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—The trial of the 10 defendants charged with conspiracy to overissue Julian Petroleum stock went into its second week today with the jury box still unfilled.

Although Superior Judge William Doran has taken over examination of jurors and is proceeding more rapidly than the attorneys did, there is slight change that the jury will be completed before next week.

Chief Deputy District Attorney Harold L. Davis is scheduled to hold a conference with defense attorneys today in an effort to reach an agreement whereby it will not be necessary to introduce voluminous evidence in the form of voluminous records into the trial.

MANY MORE SEIZURES ARE EXPECTED AS DRAGNET OF LAW SWEEPS OVER DISTRICT

Charges of Sale Brought Against 17; 27 Are Accused of Possession Of Intoxicating Liquor

(By United Press)

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—As Sheriff Sam Jernigan's deputies continued today to close in on booze suspects throughout the county, the number of arrests in one of the largest liquor drives ever launched here is rapidly approaching the 50 mark.

Forty-four alleged offenders have been crowded into the county jail, while tonight's activity is expected to boost the figure well on its way to a record of 100 captures. Reaping the fruits of months of investigation by District Attorney Z. B. West Jr., and his aides, officers scoured this section until midnight last night, rounding up their quarry.

No part of the county is being spared as the dragnet sweeps steadily on.

Vernon "Shorty" Myers, 40, Anaheim, one of the owners of the Blue Moon Inn, on the state highway between Santa Ana and Anaheim, posted a $1000 bail bond after his arrest last night on a charge of selling liquor and today had been released.

He is to appear tomorrow at 9 a. m., in Morrison's court for arraignment.

George Larson, of the Larson Drug company, Anaheim, paid a $500 fine to Morrison on a charge of possession, after a charge of sale had been dismissed. Larson was arrested yesterday.

FURNISHES $500 BAIL Alexander Lymburner, 76, Buena Park, furnished $500 bail to guarantee his appearance tomorrow before Morrison on a charge of possession.

R. L. Life, 31, Anaheim automobile salesman, arrested yesterday on a possession charge, put up a $500 bond with Morrison and was released. He is scheduled to

RECALL MOVE IS UNDER WAY IN BEACH CITY

(By United Press)

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Clarence D. Chamberlin and Roger Williams took off from Roosevelt field at 10:11:30 a. m. today on another attempt to regain the world endurance flight record for the United States.

A similar attempt yesterday by the flyers failed four hours after the start when their gasoline pump ceased to function, stopping the flow of fuel from the large storage tanks of the Bellanca plane to the gravity tanks in the wings, which feed the motor.

Chamberlin was at the controls of the plane which is owned by A. R. Martine, wealthy Wall street banker.

The flyers hoped to remain in the air from 55 to 60 hours.

BANDIT IS NEAR DEATH RESULT SHOOTING FRAY

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—In a desperate gun battle in the sheriff's office here today, during which a fusillade of shots were exchanged, Manuel Gallego, bandit suspect, formerly of Oakland, was probably fatally injured and a police driver wounded.

Gallego was shot down after he had disarmed Leland A. Thorne, police car driver, and, in a futile effort to shoot his way to freedom, turned his smoking weapon on Capt. Clem Peoples, of the sheriff's robbery detail.

Ex-Convict, Claim Gallego, an ex-convict police say, was arrested last night on suspicion of robbery and today was taken to the scene of a number of holdups here in an effort to have him identified by the victims.

He was returned to the sheriff's office shortly before noon and was to have been sent to the county jail when suddenly he leaped upon Thorne, who was seated at an adjoining table, and secured the driver's revolver.

Thorne was shot through the left hip in the struggle for possession of the gun and as he dropped to the floor Gallego engaged in a gun battle with a half a dozen deputies, who were in the room.

Friend of Officer Fires As he leveled the smoking gun at Captain Peoples, who ran from an inner office at the first signs of the disturbance, Frank W. Egan, a personal friend of Peoples, who was with the officer, pulled a revolver and fired at Gallego.

The bandit suspect crumpled to the floor with a bullet through his abdomen. He was removed to the county jail hospital for treatment, where it was reported that he was not expected to live.

Gallego, according to records, was first sentenced to jail in Oakland, Dec. 15, 1922, on a battery charge. Since that time he has served considerable time in penitentiaries and jails, police say.

20-Year Building Program Urged By Secretary Wilbur

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Secretary of Navy Wilbur urged today a 20-year navy building and replacement program to cost $3,360,000,000.

At the end of this 20-year program, the navy should embark on another 20-year program, to keep the navy up to required strength. Wilbur told the house naval affairs committee. He had appeared to answer detailed inquiries regarding the proposed immediate $800,000,000 five-year building program.

WOMEN'S CLUBS REFUSE TO ACT AGAINST 'FOX'

By DAN CAMPBELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 12.—Expected action by the presidents' council of the district Federation of Women's Clubs, in the form of a resolution demanding the death of William Edward Hickman, failed to materialize today.

The resolution, which had been previously passed by the Cosmos club, was to have been presented at a meeting in the Pasadena Shakespeare clubhouse, but the proposal was halted, the United Press learned from authoritative sources, after attorneys had advised against it.

Might Favor Slayer
Passage of the resolution, urging that Hickman be given the extreme penalty for the murder of Marion Parker and vigorously opposing his insanity defense, might be looked upon as favorable developments for the young slayer, several prominent clubwomen, who refused to allow their names to be used, pointed out.

It is understood that attorneys who were consulted declared that if the resolution were passed it might result in the 40,000 women represented by the council being barred from jury duty if they were called in the Hickman case, as the result of the attitude expressed by their representatives.

It also was considered likely that such a resolution might be considered a favorable argument for defense attorneys in the event they sought a change of venue, on the grounds that an unprejudiced jury could not be obtained in Los Angeles county.

Attitude Is Unchanged
Although the Hickman case was not even mentioned at the meeting, the attitude of clubwomen to the plans being made against Hickman is known to remain unchanged and it is considered likely that individual clubs may vote resolutions condemning the young slayer.

Dispatches from Kansas City stating that Hickman's former classmate, Don Johnston, admitted that he believed Hickman knew the difference between right and wrong, making him legally sane and responsible for the Parker murder, angered the young slayer today.

"I don't believe he said that," Hickman retorted. "And if he did, I don't give a damn."

Alienists retained by District Attorney A. A. Keyes to prepare the state's case, will make no further examination of the killer until Saturday, it was decided today.

Dr. R. O. Shelton, retained by Richard Cantillon, associated with Walsh in the defense, is to study the slayer three hours each day. During Shelton's examination yesterday, Dr. Herman Schorr and Paul Bowers, prosecution alienists, arrived at the jail but were refused audience by Hickman.

Dr. Benjamin Blank, jail physician, then told Hickman that no defense specialists would be allowed to interview him unless the prosecution doctors were given the same privilege.

Dr. Shelton agreed to give the state physicians their time with Hickman after three days of study. He said he would occupy three hours each day.

Hickman also agreed that he would answer the questions of the state specialists freely after the time allotted to Shelton had elapsed.

Walsh Will Seek Depositions In Arkansas

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 12.—The fight to save Edward Hickman, youthful Los Angeles murderer, from the gallows, was to shift into Arkansas tomorrow, when his attorney, Jerome Walsh, expects to obtain depositions from officials of the Arkansas State Insane asylum, for use in attempting to prove his client insane.

Mrs. Eva Hickman, Edward's mother, once was confined in the Arkansas institution and Walsh will attempt to prove Hickman was suffering from "hereditary insanity" when he killed Marion Parker.

Walsh spent several days here, taking depositions from former high school classmates of Hickman.

Walsh said he expected to leave for Los Angeles next Tuesday and that Edward's mother planned to be in California January 23.

PACIFIC GROVE, Calif., Jan. 12.—Two children, 11 and 13 years old, were struck and killed here today by a touring car driven by Charles Morris, 30.

Morris was held on a charge of manslaughter following the accident.

Smith Letter To Be Read At Party Rally

BY PAUL R. MALLON
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Gov. Al Smith, of New York, has sent Chairman Clem Shaver, of the Democratic national committee, a letter to be read at the Jackson day "harmony dinner" tonight, it was learned today.

Its nature was declined in invitation to attend and there had been speculation that there would be no message from him.

cell for death. She and Gray learned of Justice Levy's stay from the morning papers.

"I wonder how long that will last?" Mrs. Snyder commented dully to a matron.

Gray Unconcerned

Gray appeared unconcerned.

The remarkable change that has come over Mrs. Snyder in the last few days was never so pronounced as when she read about the stay. A few days ago she was hopeful and determined to live. Today she apparently was in despair and convinced nothing would save her.

She ate little and spent most of the time in a semi-stupor on her cot.

Justice Levy Vacates Stay of Execution

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Justice Aaron Levy, of the supreme court, this afternoon vacated the stay of execution he issued last night forbidding the execution of Ruth Snyder.

Levy also denied the motion of attorneys for the Snyder family for a jury trial in the suit of the Prudential Life Insurance company to avoid payment of $95,000 insurance upon the life of Albert Snyder.

Assistant Attorney General Beyer opposed Haselton urging that he stay be vacated and cited numerous legal authorities.

Justice Levy spoke feelingly and tears welled in his eyes as he announced his decision.

"Sorry Day For Lorraine"

"This is a sorry day for Lorraine Snyder," he said. "Lorraine is Mrs. Snyder's 9-year-old daughter, to whom the insurance involved in the case would be paid."

"It is a sad day and even a sadder moment," Justice Levy said, as he concluded his decision, "but this court can conceive of no advantage which can come to this child, Lorraine, from anything otherwise. This motion is denied and the stay is revoked."

The motion of Justice Levy removed the last apparent legal obstacle to the execution of Mrs. Snyder and Henry Judd Gray tonight.

It followed a dramatic session in court.

Judge Edgar Haselton, attorney for Mrs. Snyder, made an emotional plea for the judge to continue in force the stay he had issued last night.

Mother and Brother Bid Farewell To Ruth Snyder

SING SING PRISON, N. Y., Jan. 12.—Mrs. Josephine Brown, mother of Mrs. Ruth Snyder, and Andrew Brown, brother of Mrs. Snyder, appeared at the prison today to say farewell to Mrs. Snyder, who is expected to be executed tonight.

Mrs. Brown appeared broken. Tears filled her eyes as she was led through a crowd of reporters to her daughter's death cell.

Gray's Attorney Seeks Habeas Corpus Writ

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Samuel Miller, attorney for Henry Judd Gray, spent more than an hour with Federal Judge H. W. Goddard today, pleading for a writ of habeas corpus to stay Gray's execution, scheduled for tonight.

When Miller left, both he and Judge Goddard refused to make a statement, but it was generally believed the writ had been refused.

Goddard said the "matter has been disposed of one way or another," but would not indicate how.

The imposing delegation appointed by the United States is hailed with pleasure in Latin America. The move is looked upon in many quarters as an indication of an American desire to disarm critics both at home and in her sister republics of American policies toward her near neighbors.

The approaching congress is thought to contain the ingredients of a new understanding that may remove the misunderstandings that have marred inter-American relations during recent years.

fight for a congress inquiry, instead of a presidential board investigation. Swanson's proposal for an investigation by a senate naval subcommittee was defeated.

The house resolution was altered to require the commission of three civilians and two retired naval officers to make their findings before March 15 instead of before May 15.

The commission to be named by the president would inquire specifically into the S-4 disaster and also into the general question of safety and salvage devices for submarines.

Senator Trammell, Democrat, Florida, later introduced a resolution to authorize a committee of five senators to investigate the disaster and report to the senate before March 15. Trammell's resolution suggested an appropriation of $10,000.

I also appreciate the quick action of the firemen in covering the merchandise in the building with canvas to protect the tenant from loss.

It is my opinion that under the direction of Fire Chief John Luxembourger we have one of the best fire departments in this state."

PAYS $500 FINE ON POSSESSION CHARGE

His appeal to the superior court having failed, George L. Ogilvie, Los Angeles, today paid a fine of $500 in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court on a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor.

He was arrested by F. W. Howard, chief criminal deputy sheriff on October 6, 1932, charged with having eight pints of liquor in the rear of his automobile. He was returning to Los Angeles from Tijuana at the time of arrest, it was said.

Ogilvie was found guilty in Justice Morrison's court and ordered to pay a fine of $500. On the grounds that the fine was excessive, he appealed to the superior court, which upheld the decision of the lower court.

AUTO RUNS 59 MILES ON GALLON OF GAS

Automotive engineers who worked for years in an effort to reduce gasoline consumption have found the solution in a marvelous invention that fits all cars. An actual test made by one of the engineers showed 59 miles on a gallon of gas. Thousands of car owners have already installed this new invention. They not only report amazing gas savings but are also surprised to find quicker pick-up, stant starting, smoother running motors and disappearance of carbon. E. Oliver, 995-35-43 E. Third St., Milwaukee, Wis., for a limited time is offering a free device to those who will help introduce it. He also needs men everywhere to make over 1000 weekly in their own territory taking care of local business. Write him at once for free sample and his money making offer.—Adv.

PLANNING NEW ORGANIZATION FOR GROWERS

Definite steps for the organization and incorporation of a new walnut growers' association will be taken at a meeting of interested growers to be held tomorrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock, at the factory building just south of the packing house of the Richland Walnut Growers' association, at Oxnard.

A number of growers interested in the creation of an association to handle their product independent of the California Walnut Growers' association, were present at a meeting held at the same place yesterday. At that time it was determined that definite action would be taken tomorrow for institution of the new association.

Operation of the organization is not limited to producers in the vicinity of Oxnard, for it is a county-wide proposition, and those directing the preliminary steps today said they would appreciate the presence of a large group of men so that they may have a voice in formulating the bylaws and constitution under which the organization will be operated, and in the selection of officers to take charge of the business.

Present plans of the organizers contemplate the sale of walnuts of members through brokerage firms here and in the east have already asked for the account.

THREE INJURED WHILE FIXING TIRE ON ROAD

Tedrick was unconscious for some time after the accident and suffered injury to his left arm. Futliff was badly cut and bruised in the accident.

OBITUARY

Kenneth MacKinnon was born in Cape North, Cape Breton Island, Nova Scotia, September 17th, 1883, the third child of Donald MacKinnon and Annie MacLean MacKinnon, springing from a long line of Highland Scotch ancestry. He was educated in the common schools, and graduated with honors from the Cape Breton academy. From early childhood he was trained carefully in the Presbyterian faith, and his steadfast belief and trust in his Maker never faltered. He passed away January 7th, 1933, aged 49 years, 3 months and 21 days.

In early manhood he removed to Minneapolis, Minn., where he entered into religious and educational careers. He identified himself with the First Presbyterian church, where he sang in the choir for many years, rendering hymns in the original Gaelic. He was also connected with the Young Men's Christian Association, and became interested in other religious activities and missionary work among the foreign element and the poor. In this work, he was aided with Dr. Torrey, the elder, who later founded the Bible Institute in Los Angeles. Mr. MacKinnon was also active in labor circles, becoming the first secretary of the affiliated labor organizations of Minneapolis, then called the "Knights of Labor."

In 1898 he became united in marriage to Sarah Orona Douglas, and three children were born to them, only one of which, Donald Kenneth, of this place, survives. Mr. MacKinnon and his family came to Garden Grove in 1900, settling on East Anselm street, where his wife, Mrs. Orona MacKinnon, passed away in 1915. They united with the First Methodist Episcopal church, of Garden Grove, from which church she was buried.

Mr. MacKinnon later was united in marriage to Mrs. Balle Henderson of Garden Grove, on February 15, 1916, who survives him. Also surviving are a nephew, Donald Timmons, and a niece, Mrs. Annie Packer, both of Los Angeles, and a niece, Mrs. Jean MacLean, of Providence, R. I., as well as five grandchildren.

Mr. MacKinnon was a devoted husband and father, and a man of high ideals, and his home life was that of a true Christian, imparting the highest standard of ethics and morals to his family, who holds his memory in reverence.

Always a man of God, his faith sustained him to the end. (Nova Scotia papers please copy.)

TALL BOYS RULE
IN ORANGE HIGH

ORANGE, Jan. 12.—Unless styles in class presidents at the Orange high school change in the next four years, what chance has any certain freshmen who enrolled this year, and who can stand well under the arms of the president of the class of 1928, of attaining this coveted office in 1929.

For a number of years past, presidents of the senior class have been tall boys. This year, Harvey Pease, elected to fill this office, weighs about 165 pounds and is six feet and two inches tall. The 74 president, James Workman, was three inches above six feet.

The two smallest freshmen are Mark Lentsinger, weighing 70 pounds, and Raymond Elies, weighing 71. Both boys are slightly over four feet and are 13 years old. Combined, their weight is considerably less than that of Pease. Both freshmen stand well in their classes.

LEAP YEAR IS NOT WELCOME
BY PRISONERS

BY HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
(Special to The Register)

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Jan. 12.—Try this to the tune of the "Prisoners' Song":

"Oh, Leap Year is tough on a convict, because he must serve an extra day; it also is tough on his poor darlin' who waits to pop the question, far away."

There you have in a word, or Father Time then adds an extra to the 5500 convicts in California's state prisons hate to see Leap Year roll 'round.

Another Time then adds an extra 15 years to the prison sentences of all the convicts put together. Most of them are doing sentences of "5 years" or "25 years" and for the extra day every Leap Year they receive no credit.

The only way a convict's sweetheart can propose to him is through the mail. And who wants to do that, when every letter is closely censored, even the stamps being torn off to see that no "junk" or narcotics is hidden beneath?

A convict, as Irvin Cobb might have aptly put it, has about "as much privacy as a goldfish." The state of California, according to the board of prison directors, is no more enthusiastic about the matter than the convicts, for it adds several thousands of dollars to the bill for operating the institutions. Each convict must be fed, housed and clothed on that extra day the same as usual.

"A lot of perfectly good time is going to absolute waste in this way," writes a San Quentin convict in the current Bulletin of the prison. Someone, he insists, who is serving a long "stretch" should be given credit for the additional 15 years that the 5500 convicts serve during Leap Year.

KIWANIS CLUB
HEARS ADDRESS
BY J. S. SMART

Cash and Carry Wholesale grocery stores have made it possible for corner grocers to compete with chain stores and have been the means of saving grocery merchants from financial ruin, according to declarations made by J. S. Smart, of the Smart-Financial company, in an address at the meeting yesterday of the Santa Ana Kiwanis club.

The head of the local wholesale house admitted that chain stores had forced a revolution in the matter of wholesaling of groceries and had been effective in reducing the overhead charges necessary in former methods of wholesaling from 15 to 20 per cent to approximately 4 1/2 per cent.

Pointing out that in the old days of merchandising, the merchant had to have around 25 per cent and the wholesaler 15 to 18 per cent, Smart said that new merchandising methods had effectively reduced costs to the buying public.

Commenting on the present day policy of "buying from hand to mouth," the veteran grocer said that if all the grocery stores would close for one day there would be serious inconvenience to thousands; that if they closed for a week, there would be a famine, and that if they closed for a month there would be a riot.

"The wife today returns from a tea at 5 o'clock and has a five-course dinner ready by 6 o'clock," Smart said, in comparing conditions today with those when he entered the grocery business in Michigan some 40 or 50 years ago. Smart's talk was entitled "Selling Groceries 50 Years Ago," and in his discussion he related personal experiences in the early days of his association with the business, presenting many of the humorous sides of the early day methods.

He related how it was possible to sell ground pepper for less than whole pepper prices by the addition of a mixture he called P. D., which sold for 1 1/2 cents a pound. It was a 50-50 split between the mixture and the whole pepper that made the low price possible, he asserted.

"We used to receive prunes from Turkey in 1500-pound casks and dug the fruit out with a spade, excepting that portion that ran out of the cask," he said, and he added that in the day of the brown sugar, when white sugar was unknown, grocers made their profits by doing sugar purchases up in heavy paper and using plenty of paper.

Phil Lutz was program chairman and for his musical program he introduced Miss La Verne Harrell in a group of songs, accompanied by Miss Allene Laif. By special request, Miss Laif gave a piano solo, it being announced that she soon would leave for Europe to further her musical education.

BLOOD

Watch your blood pressure! If it's 180 or 200 instead of 120, it's a sign to be careful. High blood-pressure cuts years off one's life. Heart palpitation, dizziness and difficulty are symptoms of high blood pressure, the result of our modern abnormal habits of life which put too great a strain upon the liver.

The liver becoming sluggish fails to cleanse the blood of the toxic poisons formed in food waste, which then permeate the whole system, affecting heart, blood pressure and blood vessels. The liver needs a little help occasionally. Nothing better for this, as medical men know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning, so essential to real health.

Dietol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dietol. They cost less than 2¢ each at good druggists, and a few sent tell.—Adv.

NO PROTESTS MADE ON LAGUNA WORK

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 12.—No protests were filed or made in person when the proposition to improve Forest avenue, hearing for which was set for Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock came before the city council, and after some explanations were made the ordinance of intention was adopted. John Arscott wanted to know if certain trees might not be removed to the advantage of the street and Mr. Peacock wanted to know what provision might be made for taking care of the Rudis trees, which are to be planted between the ornamental lights.

Questions were asked regarding the draining of the water from Forest avenue on the surface of the street around on to the Coast boulevard. City Engineer A. J. Teed explained that this was in a measure a temporary expedient, as the improvement of the streets in water would take a different course. He thought that it might be necessary to make more ample provision on Coast boulevard for the escape of the water meanwhile, however.

The map of the improvement district was exhibited showing the lines of the assessment district. It was explained that property on the avenue would bear out of the cost, but that some could be borne by other property. This would be confined to the cost of the intersections. At the regular meeting of the council which followed the special one for hearing protests, Teed said at he had been assured that the 800 promised for certain work. Foster street would be allowed the supervisors and would be available at once. He outlined his plan of disposing of the dirt excavated in making a cut on Foster street.

SMALL ATWOOD WELL PLACED ON PRODUCTION

ATWOOD, Jan. 12.—The California Petroleum corporation, finished Heartwell No. 3 this week at 4786 feet. The well is on the pump and is making 247 barrels of oil of 28 degree gravity with a 27 per cent cut. It is cleaning up, however, and will be a good well, it is predicted. Heartwell No. 3 is on the lease purchased from the Chiksan Oil company by the General Petroleum some time ago. The lease lies on the brow of the hill west of Van Buren street. This finishes up the drilling on this lease for some time at least.

The Standard Oil is grading for a new well, Anaheim Union Water No. 4, on the southwest side of the lake, and offsetting T. L. G. No. 16 of the Union Oil company. It will be some time before drilling commences, as the rig used for this well will have to be dismantled and moved from Olive, where it was used for the Kaiser well.

Vejar No. 3 was given a production test at 2151 feet and is making 75 barrels of 14.7 degree gravity oil with a 50 per cent cut. Yorba No. 2 was tested at 1235 feet and is pumping water and a little oil. Yorba No. 1 is drilling in oil sand and brown shale at 5510 feet.

Moll Community No. 2 is drilling in hard gray sand at 4000 feet. The Shell has been held up on the test well south of Placentia by a fishing job. The well had been put down 5555 feet when the drill pipe was lost.

The Shell company seemingly has faith in deep drilling, and it is reported the company is preparing to beat the record of the C. C. M. O. in the Brea-Olinda district. Chanslor-Canfield put Olinda No. 36, now abandoned, down 3201 feet, which was called the deepest in the world. Shell Oil drilled Columbia No. 40 to 7115 feet and stopped because of mechanical trouble. It was plugged back several times, and they will try for production at 4590 feet.

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—California, divided by its modern "Mason and Dixon line" is pitched in rival camps today awaiting the results tomorrow of allocation of $25,000,000 comprising the state's highway expenditures for 1928.

There will be no civil war, but the highway commission is expected to be divided regarding at least three projects considered of vital importance to various sections of the state. These are:

The Newhall tunnel, held imperative to growing traffic needs in the Los Angeles district as a means of quick ingress and egress, and roughly estimated to cost $1,500,000.

The Skyline boulevard, pet project of San Francisco and the coastal counties, already well on its way, but which its backers want completed within the present biennium.

Work entailed in realignment of that part of the Redwood highway in Marin county, where the $350,000 San Clemente grade project and construction by the state of approaches to the Sears Point cutoff tollroad built by the Golden Gate Ferry company of San Francisco would increase by thousands of cars daily the capacity of main arteries leading to San Francisco from northern points along Pacific and Redwood routes.

While strongest pressure has been brought to bear on behalf of the Skyline boulevard project, it was forecast in state circles today that the Newhall tunnel and Marin county projects will be considered as of prime importance in the order named, and that the Skyline extension will be rated third in importance.

Approximately $7,000,000 of the state's road expenditures this year will go for new primary highway construction, exact apportionment being dependent upon changes which the commission, subject to approval by Governor Young and the department of finance may make tomorrow in the budget as prepared by E. B. Meek, director of public works.

Old Type Farmer In England Gone

LONDON, Jan. 12.—John Bull has ceased to exist except for the cartoonist, it was revealed at the Christmas cattle show at the Smithfield club. The passing of the old school of British farmers, who would sign a check only with a quill pen, was stressed when officials of the club, setting up temporary quarters in the Royal Agricultural hall, left behind at the club's offices the bunch of quill pens used from time immemorial.

With the quill pens, observation at the show disclosed, have passed the beaver and billycock hats, breeches and gaiters, and John Bull faces and figures. The modern farmer comes to the show in a sack suit and a soft felt hat; he sometimes wears horn-rimmed glasses and he carries a fountain pen.

Probably the last survivor of the old school was Sir Oswald Mesley, father of the socialist husband of the late Marquis of Curzon's daughter.

CITY'S SCHOOLS GET PRAISE IN LATEST REPORT

BY ESTO BROUGHTON
Staff Correspondent Santa Ana Register

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 12.—"The Little Red School House," which by the way "chooses" to be white not red, scattered through Orange county do not compare educationally with the city schools of Santa Ana, according to a statewide report on the rural "one-room" schools just completed by Margaret Elizabeth Higgins under the direction of Miss Helen Heffernan, state commissioner of elementary schools.

The tendency of California farmers to unite educationally in union schools employing two or more teachers is commended by Miss Heffernan for the additional advantages the larger units give the children.

According to the compilation made today by the state department of education there are 1653 one-room schools throughout the state manned by only one teacher and in all but 50 cases manned by a woman.

Orange county has only three "one-teacher" schools out of a total of 613 elementary teachers in the county, this representing but 0.5 per cent of the community's teaching force.

A study of the questionnaires returned to the school department by 1000 of these rural teachers reveals the fact that over half, or 54 per cent, of these country pedagogues are married and that to a great extent they share the community life in which they teach. It also discloses the difficulties rural teachers have in securing adequate living quarters within the district, many of them having to pay as high as $50 rent per month and the cost for often very undesirable rooms or homes ranging from $5 up.

The rural teacher is usually a home product since 34.6 per cent of them, according to the survey, received all of their salary training in rural schools and over one-fourth of them attended rural schools for part of the time while going through the elementary grades.

"As is the teacher, so is the school" in the country, according to state school officials, because the teacher must stand practically alone being responsible for the organization of the program with little outside help.

"This is all the more reason for the rural teacher being highly trained," Miss Heffernan declared. "But the survey indicates that 54.3 per cent of the thousand reporting had less than the minimum preparation now required by the state board of education for certification. And six teachers had spent only four years in school, and 50 had spent no more than eight years."

The salaries in rural schools are not attractive to the teaching profession, the average for beginners being $1548; and the salary after years of service averaging only $1868 per year. Three men teachers after 25 years' experience were receiving only $1520 in rural schools.

While nearly 50 per cent of the rural teachers in the state were inexperienced the three "one-room" teachers in Orange county have all had previous experience.

ALVINO PINEDA IS DECLARED TO BE INSANE

Alvino Pineda, 26, confessed slayer of Juan Pineda, 60, prominent Mexican of Smeltzer, was adjudged insane today by a trio of physicians in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court. Judge Allen took the decision under advisement until Friday at 10 a. m., when he will make known his disposition of the case.

Pineda involved two others in his confession of murder, Porfirio Ruan and Gorgonio Aviles, both of Smeltzer. They are still being held in the county jail.

The insanity verdict will preclude a possible murder charge against Pineda, which probably would have been issued if he had been declared sane, according to Deputy District Attorney Sam Collins.

Dr. R. A. Cushman, Dr. John Wehrly and Dr. D. A. Harwood examined Pineda today and returned the verdict of insanity. Pineda was represented by A. E. Koepsel, of Orange, appointed by the court.

School Reunion At Seal Beach Attracts Pupil

SEAL BEACH, Jan. 12.—Word of the reunion of scholars of the Gowan school near Centerville, Mo., at Seal Beach, January 21, has resulted in the discovery of another of the "girls" in La Verne, Calif. Mrs. Laura Eby Christ, who will attend and greet her childhood classmates and first teacher.

BOBBED HEADS ON INCREASE IN STATE POLITICS

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 11.—The hand which is rocking the California ship of state as she plies through political troughs and weathers party storms may be strong, but it is ringed and well-manicured, for it is feminine. The Golden State's political tug is "well-manicured" by women, steering with a permanent wave, it appeared today upon the completion of a cursory inventory of its hundreds of women executives and thousands of women employees.

Texas may have had its "Tiger" Ferguson, governing fast and furious, but California has many political mammas, who promise to reign long and firmly although with a gloved hand. In the state's highest party councils women now are raising their voices. Republican and Democratic leaders, both, consult bobbied and marcelled heads when they want to know "how goes the women's vote." California women were among the first to receive the palms of victory in the "feminist" movement, and judging from the past, women this year will head the list of delegates to the national party conventions. "Of one mind like sheep" is a term that can never be applied to women politicians from this state who celebrated the advent of the 19th amendment by heading both the Republican factions in 1920. The four women who led the Hiram Johnson "for president" ticket were: Mrs. Katherine Phillips Edson of Los Angeles, who is now celebrating her 15th year as a member of the Industrial Welfare commission; Mrs. Cora Woodbridge of Roseville, "assembly-woman" now for the third time; Mrs. C. K. McClatchy of Sacramento, and Mrs. M. C. Zumwalt. At the same time 11 women were listed on the Hoover ticket, among whom were: Mrs. Bertha L. Cable of Los Angeles, and Dr. Clara Burdette of Pasadena, both past-presidents of the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. John M. Eshleman, widow of "Jack" Eshleman, California's first Railroad commissioner and popular lieutenant governor running mate of Hiram Johnson, headed the list of Republican presidential electors in 1924 and is already being suggested for a similar honor this presidential season. Not limiting her zeal to partisan politics, Mrs. Eshleman is serving as a member of the state civil service commission which is committed to the Young policy of retaining employees in office strictly on a basis of merit.

The state board of education is divided 50-50 between the sexes so young California will receive a balanced masculine-feminine training it is indicated. Governor Young named Mrs. Minnie B. Bradford, Sacramento, head of the State Parent-Teacher association; Mrs. James Steinhart, San Francisco, leader in the League of Women Voters; Mrs. Daisie L. Short, Oakland, and Mrs. Irene Heinemann, Los Angeles clubwoman, as members and renamed Mrs. Dora A. Stearns of Los Angeles, a former Richardson appointee.

"She had so many children she didn't know what to do" might be applied to Mrs. Annie L. Saylor, director of the state department of social welfare, who has over 14,000 orphaned and half-orphaned children under her protective wing.

Naturally the executive secretary of California's official beauty board is a woman. Miss Elizabeth Macdonald as secretary of the state board of cosmetology is the authorized arbiter of pulchritude problems of this administration.

For the woman who labors with her hands and needs protection from the state, there is Miss Katherine Kelly, secretary of the division of labor statistics to look after her rights.

MILLIONAIRE HEIRESS BRIDE

Here is Mrs. William R. Yaw, the former Madeleine Cousens, daughter of Senator James Cousens of Detroit, just after her wedding. The ceremony took place in the Bloomfield Hills (Detroit) home of the bride's parents and only the immediate families witnessed the marriage. The bride gown carried a train six yards long, over which fell another train of tulle, caught to the lace cap.

SATIN POPULAR AT EVENING PARTIES

PARIS, Jan. 12.—White satin, plain or trimmed with paste ornaments or diamante embroidery, is now fashionable at evening parties. With the skirt draped on the left and flowing drapery from the left shoulder a white satin dress looks very well, quite apart from the diamonds that may compose the necklace, the bracelets, and the solitaires in the ears, and embroidered the shoes of fine white kid.

For a girl's party dress there is a thick, soft white satin. The skirt is slightly full with a scalloped hem, and rather long; the bodice dips in scallops at the back and front; the neck is rounded, and on one side of the bodice is a big embroidered silver rose, while on the opposite side of the skirt is a bigger rose.

The white satin shoes have silver heels, and the little satin wrist sack is embroidered with little silver roses. Again, gold may go with a plain white satin; the deep pointed neck will be finely edged with it and the bangles and the bag will be made of it. The hems of satin dresses are always irregular, scalloped, pointed, or cut in squares.

Black satin is worn in the afternoon; black chiffon or velvet in the evening. With a black chiffon dress there may be an apple green taffeta sash tied in a big bow and ends on the left hip. A pale rose-pink taffeta dress with a draped bodice will have a skirt looped fully and falling into a deep scallop back and front. A pale green chiffon dress has three flounces edged with silver lace and a bodice on which a silver lace cape hangs behind. The back is not flounced, but a double panel falls loosely from under the cape. A red chiffon dress trimmed with one big black silk poppy with a diamond center will show up among dresses of white or pale pastel colors.

For a tea party there can be a red-brown velvet coat with raglan sleeves, trimmed with brown fur and lined with brown satin shot with gold; the velvet matches the coat, and the jewelry will be, perhaps, plain gold jewelry, necklace, and bracelets. A coat and skirt of gray moire will be worn with a silver gray lame pullover, a long coat of shaggy gray lamb, and a hat of gray felt with silver incrustations.

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all of the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster without the burn. You feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frost-bitten feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu."

At the first sign of a cold in the head take Musterole Cold Tablets. They usually give prompt relief.

TRIES TO EMULATE FOX; LANDS IN JAIL

FRESNO, Jan. 12.—Taking his cue from William Edward Hickman, a young high school student has confessed to police here to invading the home of his neighbor, Miles Humphrey, and inscribing "Death—The Fox" on the furniture, draping photographs in black and scattering pepper throughout the house.

The youth, whose name police withheld, said he "was just playing a joke on Humphrey." Humphrey didn't think it was so funny. So the practical joker is being held in the detention home.

New Disease Is Found In England

LONDON, Jan. 12.—A new road complaint has been found by Lord Hewart, lord chief justice of England.

The complaint, described by Lord Hewart as "automobiliousness," grew out of an injury a motorcyclist received in the arterial highway between here and the seaside resort, Southend.

Plaintiff in the case had sued for damages, charging that the defendant had negligently driven into middle of the road causing the accident. The defense denied that the driving was negligent, asserting that the speed was only 20 miles an hour.

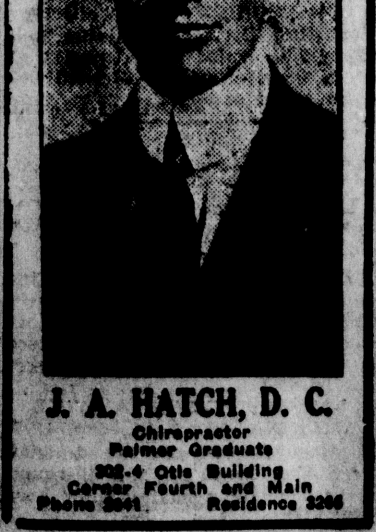

Lord Hewart after remarking on the apparent "dullness" of driving 20 miles an hour, diagnosed the road's complaint as "automobiliousness."

Keep Looking Young
 The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eye with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

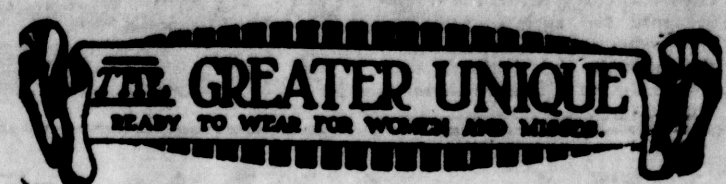

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 25c and 50c.—Adv.

Turns either right or left. Has extra heavy discs, more and larger heavy-duty, dust-proof bearings. Front and rear gang held parallel with Half Circle Hold Down Bars, insuring even penetration with both front and rear gangs.

Special Features Indicated by Numbers on Illustration

- 1 The Draw Bar is of a telescoping type. 18 inches forward or reverse motion of tractor puts disc in desired cutting angle or closed position.
- 2 Angle Adjusting Bar is connected with our triangle hitch. A light pull of a rope and both gangs take the required angle immediately.
- 3 Offset Adjusting Bar which puts Disc in required position, directly back or to side of tractor.

- 4 Rear gang hinges in center; makes turning easier, and taking angle quicker.
- 5 Our half circle Hold Down Bar is the most important feature of our Offset Disc Harrow. It acts as a guide and an evener, which insures an even penetration of both front and rear gangs.

Down from Canada came tales of a wonderful beverage

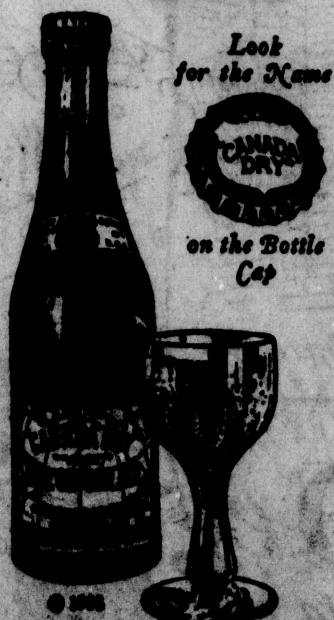

For years and years, visitors to Canada had come back with tales of a wonderful ginger ale. Friends would listen and smack their lips and ask if there wasn't some way to purchase it in this country. And the answer was always "No."

Finally, in 1921 "Canada Dry" was officially brought to the United States. It was soon necessary to establish separate plants in this country to care for the demand. Today, "Canada Dry" is known the wide world over and its growth in public favor is one of the most inspiring stories of success in the history of American business. The reason is simply that "Canada Dry" is a real ginger ale, made from real Jamaica ginger.

"Canada Dry" does not contain capsaicin (red pepper). It leaves no unpleasant after-effect. It has an exquisite flavor . . . a dryness . . . an allure and witchery that gives it distinction. It is so pure that it is served in leading hospitals. Try it with dinner tonight! You'll never know how good ginger ale can be until you drink "Canada Dry."

SANTA ANA IN FIRST VARSITY LEAGUE MATCH

all of them are likely to see service tomorrow.

Long Beach probably will come on the floor with a starting line-up composed of Captain Brown and P. Bixby, forwards; D. Bixby, center, and Paister and Freeman, guards. These men have started most of the preliminary struggles which have been won from Compton, Manual Arts, Huntington Park and Inglewood. The squad lost once, to the Long Beach high school alumni.

The varsity skirmish will be preceded by a Class C curtain-raiser between Santa Ana and Long Beach. The Santa Ana always have been strong in this department, having been Southern California champions once and runners-up another time. Last year they tied for the Coast Prep league crown but lost out in the playoffs.

SANTA ANA, LONG BEACH "BEE" TANGLE

With a record of having won four out of five practice games so far this season, Coach Bill Cook's Santa Ana class B (130-pound) team, rated as one of the best lightweight teams that has ever represented the local institution, was to clash with the Long Beach "Bee" here this afternoon in Andrews gymnasium as the opening act of the 1928 season on the Coast Preparatory league stage.

The last victory of Coach Cook's charges was over Fullerton, with the scores 29 to 21 and 18 to 10 in a double-header, Tuesday afternoon.

Cook said he intended to start Neil Hall and Claude ("Swede") Williams, both former Class C stars, at forwards; Russell Sullivan at center; and Solon Beall and Delmar Brown at guards.

Coach Cook has a list of reserves that he can send in to replace his regulars without materially weakening his team. Monty Flanders and Leo Gaspar will probably get into action in the forward positions, James Gill and Vance at center and John Keeler at guard.

The only defeat that the lightweighters have suffered this season was against Woodrow Wilson high school of Long Beach.

AMERICA'S QUEEN OF THE FAIRWAYS

SPORTSMATTER

FRANK GETTY

UNITED PRESS-SPORTS EDITOR

For the past decade, the inferiority of foreign heavyweights has been axiomatic in the boxing business of these United States.

Only Luis Angel Firpo and Georges Carpentier reached the position of runner-up to the champion, and each was promptly run down before the devastating fists of William Harrison Dempsey.

The greatest ballyhoo the boxing business yet has known carried Georges Carpentier to a title fight with the heavyweight champion of the world in 1921, and almost as much publicity nonsense, coupled with a truly devastating, club-like right hand, got the "Wild Bull of the Pampe" into the ring with Dempsey two years later.

Tomorrow night, however, a third outstanding foreign heavyweight has his chance to pave the way directly to a meeting with Gene Tunney, the present champion.

Tom Meeney of New Zealand can just about assure himself of a fight for the title by flattening Jack Sharkey of Boston on the night of Friday the 13th.

Meeney has been somewhat overlooked by the ballyhoo artists, and has reached his present position of prominence among the heavyweight contenders by hard work and attention to business.

When Tom stood up to Paulino Uzcudun twice, ruining the Basque's reputation for modified murder, the New Zealand champion made a good start towards recognition. By outfighting Johnny Risko, the rubber faced boxer from Cleveland, Meeney proved himself an able contender. To get past Sharkey will be something else again.

Yet there is the opportunity, and no logical heavyweight should ask for more. Sharkey has no sustained reputation for impressive victories. The Lithuanian was beaten by Jimmy Maloney a couple of years back, fought a poor fight against Eddie Hoffman in the Garden, and was outpointed by old Mike McTigue for the first ten rounds of their fight in the heavyweight elimination business last winter. In his last important start, Sharkey was knocked out by Jack Dempsey.

Meeney, therefore, has a fair chance of victory, so has any rugged, aggressive heavyweight who can "take it" and keep everlastingly after Sharkey. The odds do not favor the New Zealander, but sentiment seems to say: "Tom will be a popular favorite when the boxers crawl through the ropes Friday night."

It may be written on the boxing cards that Meeney is merely going in there to be slaughtered as a "build-up" for Sharkey. The Bostonian needs something of the sort to restore public faith in his ability. Or it may be that the crackled New Zealander is destined to batter his way to a place in the third international heavyweight championship fight of the decade.

Perhaps the only sport in which women come near to placing themselves on a par with the men, is the game of golf. The leaders among the fair sex have turned in some low cards in the play for highest honors the past few years.

Miriam B. Horne, captured the National Women's crown from Mrs. H. B. Stetson last year. Glenna Collett, a leader on the links for several years won the Eastern Women's and North-South Women's titles. The gallery looks for her to recapture her National crown again this year.

With such stars in the offing as Maureen Orcutt, Virginia Van Wie, Mrs. Stetson, the still dangerous, Mrs. Hurd and Glenna Collett, the present champion, will have a hectic battle on her hands if she would retain the title.

FRENCH BIRTHS INCREASE

PARIS, Jan. 12.—Since the war, the population of France is slowly increasing, although during a century before that time the population had fallen steadily.

We thank you!

A FEW WEEKS AGO the new green PAN-GAS was announced to Southern California motorists—without trick statements, extravagant claims or flowery adjectives. We did this purposely because we decided to let the motorists find out for themselves!

Months had been spent on the new formula and new refining processes. The result was a new and better gasoline—non-poisonous, anti-knock—with "a barrel of pep in every gallon!" This new PAN-GAS was tinted green to prevent substitution and offered to motorists at no advance in price in spite of the greater value represented by the new green PAN-GAS!

Thousands of motorists have tried it. It told its own story better than pages which we might write! And the motorists, thoroughly satisfied with the marked difference, have praised this new green PAN-GAS to their friends—with the result that the new green PAN-GAS is the most popular and most talked-of gasoline on the market today!

Our gratitude is extended to our dealers who have co-operated with us in serving the public—and to our old and new customers who are using and acclaiming the new green PAN-GAS!

WE THANK YOU!

Electric Motors are like
play

THERE'S only a shade of difference between comedy and pathos. You chuckle at Charlie Chaplin; an instant later you dab at a suspicious glint in your eyes. Every movie has funny episodes that might, with a slight twist in emphasis, leave you with a heart-ache. It's the way the director balances his materials that makes the difference between humor and pathos, comedy and tragedy.

Building motors is like making a movie in that certain electrical and mechanical qualities must be balanced. There's one right combination for every job. Finding it is a matter of the skill, equipment, resources, and experience of the motor manufacturer. Westinghouse has all these—especially experience. There are Westinghouse electric motors designed especially for irrigation pumps. For instance, the Westinghouse Hollow Shaft motor, with its pump-protecting jaw clutch, is carving out a name for itself on many irrigation projects.

Put one responsibility back of the entire motor application by using Westinghouse control apparatus as well as Westinghouse motors.

Rogers Denies He Is Betrothed To Claire Windsor

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 12.—In a telegram to friends here, Charles (Buddy) Rogers, motion picture actor, formerly of Olathe, Kan., denied emphatically there was anything to a rumor that he and Claire Windsor are engaged.

"Absolutely nothing to rumor," reads the telegram from the actor, who is in Los Angeles. "Please help me stop it."

Rogers stated that neither he nor Miss Windsor had been interviewed on the subject, that they had danced together at parties but that he had danced with other actresses as often.

Bert Rogers, father of the actor, said he had just returned from Los Angeles, where he spent 10 days with his son. He branded the rumor of his son's engagement as "all bunk."

CROP PROBLEM RESULTS FROM DAM IN EGYPT

CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 12.—Five million acres of land have been brought under cultivation in Egypt, and the welfare of the country and its 14,000,000 inhabitants, who live by agriculture, depends upon the regulation and control of the River Nile, the only source of water in a rainless land.

Grain and cotton are the two staple crops, and for thousands of years the Egyptian peasant has cultivated the land in accordance with the natural vagaries of the great river, which formerly overflowed its banks each year and left behind, as the waters receded, a rich deposit of silt washed down from the mountain tops of Abyssinia, whence the Nile derives its source. This silt was so rich in chemical elements that the land yielded three and four crops a year.

Egyptian cotton has long been used in the manufacture of British cotton goods. It was with the idea of increasing the production of Egyptian long-staple cotton that the Assuan dam was constructed by British capital in 1903 in order to impound the waters of the Nile and increase the amount of land under cultivation.

The Assuan dam is the largest in the world and has a reservoir capacity of 2,300,000,000 cubic meters. Since its construction the Nile has ceased to overflow its banks, the water is distributed over an area twice greater than before; but the paradox remains that in spite of the great extension of cotton-producing land the total yield of Egyptian cotton is about the same as before the dam was built, while the yield an acre is less.

And for the first time in the history of Egypt artificial fertilizers are being imported to renew the exhausted soil. The waters of the Nile flow clear, drained of their life-giving silt, which acted as a natural fertilizer, and artificial means must be used to do that which nature formerly accomplished unaided.

The average yield of cotton an acre in Egypt has gradually dropped from 5.5 to 3.7 per cent. According to Mahmoud Samy Pasha, Egyptian minister to Washington, in 1901, before the Assuan dam was built, the yield of cotton was 550 pounds an acre, while in 1914, after the construction of the dam, it was only 445 pounds. In 1913, the level of water behind the dam was raised seven meters and cotton production fell even more. In 1914 the yield fell to 367 pounds an acre, and in 1915 to 305 pounds.

MADRID-BERLIN AIR LINE OPENED

MADRID, Jan. 12.—The new Madrid-Barcelona air route has been opened in the presence of the king, the Marquis de Estella and several government ministers. The Bishop of Madrid and Alcalá blessed the two new German-built Rohrbach-Roland metal airplanes. These craft are fitted with three 750-horsepower engines and carry a crew of four (two pilots, a wireless operator and a mechanic) and 10 passengers. The start was made at 1 p. m. and the machine arrived at Barcelona at 4 p. m. An incoming airplane of the same line which left Barcelona at 8:30 a. m., arrived at Carabanchel just before 2 p. m. having been delayed by fog.

The service on the new line, which is worked by the Spanish company Iberia, in connection with the German Lufthansa, will be daily, except Sundays, and will provide direct communication between Madrid and Berlin.

Leaving Madrid at 8:30 a. m., Barcelona is reached at 11:45 a. m. Marseilles in three and one-half hours from Barcelona, and Geneva in three and one-half hours from Marseilles. The night is spent at Geneva, and the journey to Berlin may be made on the following day. The traveler may branch off at Mannheim or Frankfurt for Munich, Vienna, Brussels or London.

Civil aviation in Spain seems to be well out of the initial stage. Three Spanish companies are working, besides the French Latécoere line down the Spanish coast. The Seville-Larache line began several years ago with British machines, which are to be replaced by Loring airplanes built in Spain. The Madrid-Lisbon line, which has been in operation for six months, and the Madrid-Seville line, which started a week ago, use Junkers all-metal machines.

The new equipment for the Madrid-Barcelona line may be said to mark the definite triumph of the German civil airplane in Spain over types of other nations, whose agents have been active, but who have failed. An American group, in combination with shipping companies, is studying a line from Vigo or Coruna to Rome which would take transatlantic travelers arriving by the southern sunshine route from New York in one day from their steamer to Rome. Stops would be made at Madrid, Barcelona, the Balearic islands or Sardinia. The Spanish government is said to intend in the future to give the contract for all air services in Spain to one company.

TURKEY COMBATS RED INFLUENCE

SOFIA, Jan. 12.—Turkey, like so many other countries, has been forced to protect herself against Communist propaganda originated in Moscow. The Ankara government has a treaty of alliance with red Russia, each signatory being pledged to remain benevolently neutral in case the other is attacked by a third power. But this political association has not deterred the Third Internationale from stirring up trouble in Turkish territory and inciting the so-called Turkish proletariat to social revolution. In retaliation the Turkish authorities recently arrested about 100 Communist agitators.

The Constantinople correspondent of La Bulgaria, M. Vessas, gives in that newspaper an interesting account of the clash between Moscow and the Kemal administration. He said:

"The arrest of Communists in many parts of Turkey is to some extent Moscow's fault. This is not a paradox. Last October the Pravda, official organ of the Third Internationale, published a series of articles on Turkey. Their author, a certain Tchakovsky, one of the best known of the internationalists, had just returned from Constantinople. What had he seen there? According to the usual formula, 'a working class exploited in an iniquitous fashion by the bourgeoisie!' He added that despite what was said about the absence of a war of the classes in Turkey there existed in the country a bolshevik trend and a bolshevik organization.

"The Turkish police immediately began to look about for a bolshevik organization or bolshevik manifestations. Following the thread to the needle, a Communist organization was discovered. The Third Internationale had betrayed itself.

"After the armistice infiltration of Communist ideas into Turkey occurred through groups constituted about certain periodicals. However, the presence of the Allies in Constantinople and the patriotic attitude of the Kemalists in Anatolia kept this movement down."

IS A HEALTHIER STRONGER GIRL

Because She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The fertile valleys of Oregon help to supply the tables of America. This is possible thru the magic of the humble tin can.

In one of the canning establishments, Julia Schmidt was employed. It was a complicated work because she did sealing and other parts of the work. It was strenuous work and she was not a strong girl. Often she forced herself to sit at her machine. At times she would have to stay at home for she was so weak she could hardly walk. For five years she was in this weakened condition.

She tried various medicines. At last, a friend of hers spoke of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Miss Schmidt gave it a trial. "Everyone says I am a healthier and stronger girl," she writes, "I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to all my friends who tell me how they suffer and I am willing to answer letters from women asking about it." Julia Schmidt's address is 113 Willow St., Silverton, Oregon. For sale by all druggists.

SANTA ANA IS APPLAUDED FOR PLAY GROUNDS

Lauding Santa Ana for its present development of the city's playgrounds, Major George W. Braden, western representative of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, expressed the hope today that the plan for close co-operation between the community and its schools in developing a year-round recreation service will meet with success. Major Braden has been a visitor here, where he conferred with L. W. Archer, playground director.

He announced the coming of a conference of playground directors and workers at Santa Monica, April 12, 13 and 14, which local physical directors will attend along with 200 others from the 11 western states. It is expected that Governor Young will address the gathering on the necessity of saving the beaches.

Archer came in for praise in Major Braden's comments when he declared that he was enthusiastic over the developments in Santa Ana.

"The co-operative plan proposed here is similar to the one in operation at Monrovia, Santa Monica, Pasadena, Richmond and Berkeley, Oakland and San Francisco, among the larger cities, also follow this scheme," he said.

Major Braden expected to return to his home in Pasadena today. He conferred with the Anaheim city council and board of education last night.

Beggars Protest Tokio Officers' Ban On Children

TOKIO, Jan. 12.—Beggars of Tokio have protested to the police against the plan to prohibit children in the begging business.

There are some 400 professional beggars in Tokio, and most of them use pathetic-looking children—either their own or rented ones—to tease 10-cent pieces from the pockets of soft-hearted citizens. If they are not permitted to use children, the beggars claim, their business will be ruined. The police plan to place the children in a government home, where they can be educated and cared for.

The police say some beggars have made small fortunes at their business, but most of them live in doss-houses or in the slums.

Heating System In British Plane

LONDON, Jan. 12.—The first airplane ever to be fitted with central heating has completed its trials at the Woodford, Manchester, air-drome. Construction for service in "spotting" seals on the Newfoundland coast, the machine is equipped with a container on the exhaust pipe, from which coils run down, built into the side of the fuselage. There are shutters on either side of the cockpit, which can be opened or closed like ventilators in a railroad coach.

Tests have shown that in this central heated plane it is possible for a pilot, with the thermometer below zero, to fly without gloves. The invention is regarded by experts as going far toward solving the problem of cold, which ranks with noise as one of the greatest handicaps of flying.

This Machine Sold 2,080,700 Boxes of Oranges and Lemons

LAST year, a simple electrical device created a new market for 2,080,700 boxes of oranges and lemons.

It caused the American public to spend $48,646,766 for orange and lemon drinks instead of other beverages.

This new mechanical salesman is the Sunkist Orange and Lemon juice extractor.

In soda fountains, clubs, hotels, hospitals and dining cars from Bangor to San Diego, 42,000 of these machines are busily at work.

Last year, to furnish the orange and lemon juice for 486,467,666 drinks, they reamed out the juice of 5,202 carloads of citrus fruits.

Orange and lemon beverages, made from fresh fruit, have not long been so widely sold at soda fountains and other public eating places.

In 1914 sales scouts of the California Fruit Growers Exchange reported that the task of preparing lemonade and orangeade was so troublesome that soda fountains were selling synthetic substitutes at high prices to divert demand to bottled drinks.

A year later the newly formed dealer service department of the Exchange took hold of the task of making it easy to serve orange and lemon drinks that would be instantly recognized by the purchaser as having been made from fresh fruit.

Starting with a crude and cumbersome model of an electrical reaming device, the Exchange began its experiment. Electrical engineers, manufacturers and soda fountain experts were consulted. The Sunkist extractor was finally announced.

From start to finish it is an Exchange product, perfected, manufactured and sold (at cost) by the growers' organization.

It has enabled dispensers to conveniently serve, and consumers to economically buy, fresh fruit orange and lemon drinks. It has made citrus beverages as popular at the counter as in the home.

It has opened up a new field for oranges and lemons, which already takes more than 5,000 carloads annually, and by removing that quantity from the regular channels of trade, helps to keep demand ahead of supply, to the betterment of grower returns.

This is but another of the services performed by the California Fruit Growers Exchange for its 11,000 grower members, and for the entire citrus industry.

Talk to the manager of the nearest Exchange Association or District Exchange. Or, write for further information to California Fruit Growers Exchange, Box 530, Station "C," Los Angeles.

WHAT THE EXCHANGE IS...

The California Fruit Growers Exchange is a non-profit organization of 11,000 California citrus fruit growers, producing about 75% of the California citrus crop, organized by and for them on a cooperative basis. Its object is to develop the national and international market for California oranges, lemons and grapefruit by continuous advertising, and to provide a marketing organization that will sell the fruit of its members most advantageously and at least expense. Receipts from sales, less only actual costs of operation, are returned to the growers. Applications are received through all of the Exchange's 201 local packing associations, 23 District Exchanges or at the central office in Los Angeles.

POLLUTION OF BEACH HIT BY EXCHANGE CLUB

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 12.—Adoption of a resolution condemning the frequent pollution of the beach by oil and raw sewage, appointment of a standing committee for the year and the appointment of a special committee to assist in securing the opening of South main street to Corona Del Mar, were features of the Exchange club meeting here yesterday.

Considerable discussion arose over the resolution against the beach pollution. The resolution will be sent to Governor C. C. Young in an effort to start a campaign against the nuisance.

K. I. Fulton, prominent Corona Del Mar resident, brought under the matter of the extension of South main street in a direct line to Corona Del Mar. Fulton declared that the project had been under consideration for some time but needed more backing. A committee headed by Fulton was appointed to investigate the matter. Lew H. Wallace and Stuart Cundiff were named on the committee.

Eight standing committees were named, as follows: Attendance, Frank L. Rinehart, Hal Will Smith and Lew H. Wallace; education, LeRoy P. Anderson, H. E. Williamson and George P. Wilson; entertainment, R. S. Briggs, Frank L. Smith, J. J. Twist and M. L. Wishon; house, J. P. Greeley, Fred Crozier and W. L. Jordan; inter-city, Harry L. Williamson, Jess L. Ainsworth and Stuart A. Cundiff; publicity, Harry Welch, J. Frank Burke, S. J. Meyer and H. L. Sherman; reception, L. W. Briggs, Paul B. Ellsworth and W. A. Leonard; ways and means, Charles H. Way, James J. Cash and Theodore Robins.

Appointment of a membership committee was deferred for one week as was discussion of the annual meeting of the club. Dr. C. G. Huston, of Costa Mesa, as the speaker of the day. Dr. Huston spoke a "Co-operation Between Communities." Service clubs are playing a big part in the business world today the speaker said. Dr. Huston urged a closer co-operation spirit among the communities of Orange county and especially in the towns in southern Orange county. He asked the club to consider more get-acquainted meetings and invited Exchange club members to attend sessions of the club at Costa Mesa at any time.

J. Frank Burke, editor of The Register, and his brother, W. Maxwell Burke, of Los Angeles and Santa Ana, spoke briefly. A number of visitors were present at the meeting.

Calls Firemen, Beats Fire At Same Time

ORANGE, Jan. 12.—Presence of mind saved Mrs. Jennie Munhall, of 310 North Batavia street, from serious burns and from losing her home by fire, yesterday afternoon.

While cleaning a dress in gasoline, Mrs. Munhall's clothing caught fire when the fluid ignited from friction. Mrs. Munhall was doing the work in the basement of her home and with her clothing on fire, she went upstairs to the telephone and called the fire department. She beat out the flames in her clothing with one hand while she used the telephone to summon the fire department.

Aide from the destruction of the garment cleaned, the loss from the fire was slight although Mrs. Munhall suffered a number of burns.

LAGUNA BEACH CLUB ARRANGES FOR PROGRAMS

LAGUNA BEACH, Jan. 12.—Newly elected officers of the Community club, who take up their duties beginning with the opening of the clubhouse with a dinner and entertainment on January 15, have set in motion a schedule of activities for two months in advance.

The first of these is the celebration of the reopening of the club after being closed for several weeks while a new wing has been added, the building plastered inside and given a coat of stucco outside. Cards, entertainment and a dinner dance make up the program for the evening.

On January 23, the membership meeting will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the evening to amend by-laws so that the number of board members may be increased and also to discuss raising dues. That is also bridge night with Mrs. Effie Macbeth and Otto Keefe in charge.

"Nothing But the Truth" is to be presented January 27 and 28. This play is being rehearsed every evening under the direction of Wayne Moore.

Directors of the club will meet February 1 at 7:30. On February 2, an informal dance will be given with Mr. and Mrs. Verner Rush in charge.

COLLEGE PLAN DISCUSSED AT P.-T.A. MEET

LA HABRA, Jan. 12.—The school problem is one of particular study today and especially for the P.-T.A. which plays such an important part in the school organization today. E. C. Hartman, of Fullerton, declared at the "Fathers' Night" program of the local P.-T.A. last night at the Washington school.

"Throughout the state the demand for more junior colleges is increasing as it is almost necessary that some influence be brought to bear before a student may enter a university today due to the overcrowded condition of these institutions. To meet the demands of these students the junior college has been organized, which is in reality a college meeting the requirements of the first two years of the college work."

The 6-4-4 plan, which is being inaugurated in this district seems the only logical plan, Hartman said. This method divides the grades from the first to the sixth grade.

"Fullerton union high school district is best equipped and best arranged to form such an organization and Placentia, Tustin, La Habra, have already signified their willingness in furthering this plan and it is thought that other towns will soon fall in line when the matter is more fully explained," Hartman said.

"The cost of operating under this plan would naturally be higher as a supervising principal would be necessary and the equipment would have to be better than the elementary schools as the state laws make certain requirements along these lines regarding athletic fields, faculty, etc. These costs could all be taken care of in a bond issue if the people were convinced that this is the right thing to do. A majority of the boards of the district would be necessary to petition the trustees to put the plan into operation.

"I would not be willing to form an organization or junior high school without good equipment, as a stinging school system is a back number, but I believe that this district could be so arranged as to be a model in education."

A skit by Miss Ethel Thompson's pupils and a song by eight boys in Mrs. Chamberlain's room concluded the program.

Attendance prizes for the evening were won by Miss Ethel Thompson's room, Mrs. W. Chamberlain's room and Miss Green's room.

RUG EXPERT TALKS AT BEACH MEETING

NEWPORT BEACH GETS MAIL DELIVERY SERVICE APRIL 1; 1500 PERSONS BENEFITTED

NEWPORT BEACH, Jan. 12.—This city will have mail delivery service starting April 1, it was announced here today by Mrs. Ida Naylor, local postmistress. The delivery service, which is known officially as village delivery, will be made twice every day except Sunday.

Authorization of the establishment of the delivery service was received this week by Mrs. Naylor from the first assistant postmaster general at Washington, D. C.

Steps to secure the service were taken about eight months ago after several requests for the service had been made. It was reported by Mrs. Naylor. A house-to-house canvass was made by the postmistress, who solicited the aid of Congressman Phil Swing in securing the additional facilities.

Approximately 1500 persons will be benefited by the service, according to the postmistress. The district to be covered by the delivery includes all territory from Tenth street to Thirty-eighth street in Newport Beach.

The service will have little effect on the box service, which has been the method of distributing mail here, according to Mrs. Naylor. Few persons will release their boxes, she reports, as most of the people prefer to keep the boxes so that they may receive mail on Sundays, between the deliveries and in the evenings.

The deliveries will be made early in the morning and early in the afternoon. Increased postal receipts and a large increase in population in the district were largely responsible for the establishment of the new mail service, according to Mrs. Naylor. Postal receipts here have shown a large increase during the past year.

GARDEN GROVE, Jan. 12.—Growth of the Garden Grove Mutual Orange association during 1927 was revealed at the annual session of the organization Tuesday, when 105 members and guests gathered in the Methodist church for a banquet.

W. B. Merchant, manager of the association, gave a complete report of the operations of the association during the past year. Merchant's report showed the growth of the association in the past year 203 acres being added, resulting in an increase in shipments over 1927 of 42 per cent, and a return of $127,000 more than in 1926, or 8 per cent more money. During the season 1927, $3,150 boxes of packed fruit was shipped through the association for which the growers were paid $294,658.18. The growers were paid a refund of 15 cents per packed box on packing cost for the year. The season's average per field box was $2.34.

C. P. Earley, general manager of the Mutual Orange Distributors, from Redlands, spoke on market conditions. Earley said that last year showed the largest production of citrus fruits in history. At the same time more money was paid per box, he said.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 12.—The Pacific Coast Oil company yesterday brought in its No. 3 well at the corner of Walnut avenue and Twelfth street at 850 barrels a day, it was reported here today. The well is flowing high gravity oil, it is reported.

The well is one of the few in the district which has sought the deep sand during the past few weeks. The bottom of the hole is said to be around 5500 feet.

TWO H. B. MEN DENY GAMBLING CHARGE

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 12.—Pleas of not guilty were entered by A. L. Salton, 33, local pool hall owner, and Harry H. Wilfong, 30, charged with violation of the city ordinance on gambling. They were arrested recently by a squad of officers headed by Chief of Police Chast in a pool hall owned by Salton.

Both men asked for a jury trial after having been refused a change of venue by Judge Chris Pann. The motion was made by the attorney for the two men, who claimed that Pann was biased.

Salton is at liberty under $2000 bail and Wilfong is at liberty under $800 bail. The two men were arrested with Ben Lytell, 30, and F. Smith, 35, local oil workers. Both Smith and Lytell pleaded guilty to the gambling charge but judgment of the court was withheld.

Salton and Wilfong will appear in court for trial January 18 at 10 a. m.

Famous Well At Olinda Is Abandoned

OLINDA, Jan. 12.—The Chancery-Canfield Midway Oil company's No. 96, the world's deepest oil well, has been abandoned. Official notice of abandonment was filed with state mining bureau this week.

The hole was drilled to a depth of 8201 feet. It is understood that the well had some showings of oil near the bottom but no test was made because of the extreme heat in the hole. Specially built tools were necessary to drill the hole to the greatest depth man has ever penetrated into the earth.

Some time ago the well was plugged back to about 3500 feet, where a test was made and although some oil was found there was not enough for commercial production, it was reported.

Beauty Chats

BY EDNA KENT FORBES

If your skin is coarse grained, if when you look at it in the hand mirror you can definitely see the pores all around the nose and mouth, try the following effective treatment. Purchase a tin of any one of the gritty soap pastes used by mechanics for washing their hands to get off black oil and grease. This sort of thing is sold in hardware stores, grocery stores, and usually in the better quality at drug stores. Anyway get the best quality you can. Take this out of the tin and mix it with an equal amount of cold cream, not vanishing cream but ordinary oily cleansing cream, and keep it in any kind of jar with a decently fitting lid so the paste does not dry.

To use it wring a big face cloth or a small towel out of hot water, hold it over the skin, and after two or three minutes when the pores of the skin are opened, take a little of the paste on your fingers and rub thoroughly into the nose, particularly around the nostrils and whatever part of the face the blackheads or coarse pores may be most prominent. Do not use it where it is not necessary, for it is only to clean out the actual clogged up pores. You will be surprised at the amount of it the skin takes up. Then rinse it out thoroughly, for it is drying and will irritate the skin even though it has been softened by the addition of cold cream.

It gets well down into the skin, loosens and absorbs the dirt and wax like secretion that has been distending each pore. When rinsed out this matter comes away with it, leaving the skin free from this under-the-surface dirt. The next thing is to close and shrink the pores, which is best done by using cold water and then ice. AFTER this you will have to rub the skin with cold cream or it will be irritated by this somewhat harsh treatment.

Babe—The lines under your eyes merely indicate that your skin is not working at it does normally causing it to be a bit dry. Any lines at 18 years of age appearing on the skin of a healthy person would be due to some temporary condition and will be gone as soon as there is an improvement in the condition. If your skin feels dry, give it some stimulating treatment, such as cold water after you have bathed it. Your weight of 113 pounds with height of five feet, two inches, is about right.

Smart women of Paris are amusing themselves these days with scarves, matching their hats, tied in part bows under the chin.

DEGREES DESIGNATED
BIRMINGHAM, Jan. 12.—College graduates who earned their Ph. D. at an American university must, if they wish to use their title in France, either call themselves "Dr. phil. in U. S. A." or obtain a special permission from the French ministry of education recognizing the foreign title. This was recently decided by the Berlin courts.

ROTARIANS COMPLIMENT WIVES AT ENJOYABLE DINNER DANCE

This was proven delightfully last night when the mid-winter social affair of the club, took the form of a dinner dance at Santa Ana Country club, with some 60 Rotary Anna and guests to share the hospitality of an equal number of Rotarians. A true mid-winter feast was served of roast turkey and the dishes that are peculiarly suited to accompany the noble bird.

Place of honor was accorded the club president, William Jerome, who acted as master of ceremonies for the dinner hour. One of the most amusing features was the election held to determine the supervisor to take the place of S. H. Finley when he leaves the board. According to the election, "Red" Innes will have the place.

The entertainment committee of the club, with Charles V. Davis as chairman, is composed of Messrs. Earl Morrow, Elmer Heidt, George Duncan, E. D. Yost, Guy Gilbert and Dr. J. I. Clark. In their plans for the evening, they had included the presentation of a talented entertainer in the person of Tommy Atkins of Fullerton, whose songs and readings delighted everyone present. The versatile young man included a reading on "Pants," purporting to be a paper on the subject, read by a Jewish clothing store dealer before a convention. And when he had finished, "there was not a dry eye in the house."

Mrs. Charles L. Davis added to the entertainment with a clever bit of versifying in which she rhymed the outstanding peculiarities of various Rotarians.

The dinner hour and its delightful features were succeeded by an evening of dancing and cards. Mrs. Earl Morrow and Mrs. Ralph Mosher were hostesses in the card room, and at the close of the series of games presented desirable prizes to Mrs. Fred Parsons and William H. De Wolfe, whose names like Abou Ben Adhem's, "led all the rest."

While bridge enthusiasts were forgetting the world in their devotion to cards, devotees of the dance were reveling in the delightful program furnished by Fred Chapman's merry music-makers, occupying the orchestra platform in the ball room.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Delta Alpha
Delta Alpha class members of the First M. E. Sunday school enjoyed the hospitality of Miss Mira Westlake and her attractive home at 2340 North Fairmont avenue, as one of the events of the week.

Miss Beulah Stone, Delta Alpha president, conducted the business session which opened with prayer by Mrs. Volmer Stewart. Miss Minnie White, secretary, read a report of the class benevolence during the year, showing a satisfactory condition.

At the close of the business session, hilarity reigned when several highly entertaining games were introduced by Miss Westlake and her co-hostess, Mrs. Ivy Hamilton. These continued until a late hour, when the serving of refreshments brought a memorable evening to a close.

Dorcas Society
Mrs. R. C. Byland's attractive home at 1211 South Ross street, was thrown wide in hospitality Tuesday night, when members of the Dorcas society of the First Christian church assembled for a social meeting and program. An interesting feature of the evening was the presentation to Mrs. Huel Pond, of a lovely, hand-painted candy jar, a farewell gift from the club, before her departure for a new home in Los Angeles.

Miss Fitzpatrick, medical social science worker of Orange county, was speaker, addressing the assembled Dorcas members on the duties of a social service worker, and explaining how such an organization as theirs, might be of aid to her and the work. She told them a thrilling tale of her own experiences as a social worker in the United States and foreign countries.

At the close of the talk, Mrs. Byland served refreshments as the finale to a highly enjoyable evening.

Those present included Mrs. F. E. Williams, Mrs. H. L. Sharp, Mrs. W. S. Stire, Mrs. Field Rathbone, Mrs. Huel Pond, Mrs. Hallie Waters, Mrs. S. C. Campbell, Mrs. A. W. Gerrard, Miss Fitzpatrick, Mrs. F. A. Snipes, Mrs. G. W. Allison, Mrs. N. W. Kersey, Mrs. George Calhoun, Mrs. H. C. Parsons, Mrs. George Leonard, and Bonnie Leonard. Mrs. H. W. Leaning, Mrs. Stafford, Mrs. Merle Taylor, Mrs. Carl Alden, Mrs. Lonnie Harris, Mrs. William Rash.

Studio News and Gossip

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 12.—Jack Spratt, recorded as being unable to eat fat, and his wife, limited where anything lean is concerned, have a sympathetic bond with many of the young women who keep the wolf from the door by appearing before a motion picture camera.

Contracts of most women stars stipulate a maximum and minimum weight and when the hands of the scales begin to hover near the danger line of over or underweight the pet formulas for slenderizing and fattening are dragged out.

Phyllis Haver seldom eats luncheon. She prefers prevention to cure and stays slim by passing the noon meal. She breaks the rule to the extent of a cup of bouillon or hot milk when she has had a strenuous morning on the lot.

Jacqueline Logan has a tendency to pick up a pound or so when she is not working. The solution to her weight problem is regular motion picture work.

Leatrice Joy eschews any regular system of dieting but she eats sparingly to defeat avoirdupois. Swimming, tennis and golf aid her in the battle.

Vera Reynolds loses weight when she is working. So for several days after the completion of each picture she remains in bed and drinks huge quantities of milk.

Virginia Bradford likewise loses weight easily. When working she drinks milk and eggs every three hours.

Thelma Todd, who dropped a promising career as a school teacher to become Miss Massachusetts of 1925, has an important role in "Hell's Angels," air spectacle the Caddo company is producing. She was born in Lawrence, Massachusetts.

Slaney O'Leary, the director, has decided to try the English field and has departed from Hollywood for London, where he will work for the British Lion Film corporation.

The vogue for very flat trimmings has reached the point where anything that stands away from the hat and forms an uneven silhouette is taboo in Hollywood. The painted flower or pin has replaced the customary milliner's trimmings.

Norma Shearer, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star, began the fad when she wore a chlo gray turban of felt with an ornament in front exactly like a smart rhinestone pin but which was painted on in silver gilt.

Radium paint also is considered good on hats. Joan Crawford wears a black velvet skull cap for evening with a futuristic motif in radium paint.

Dorothy Sebastian wears a water blue moult hat for afternoon with sweet peas and roses painted on either side. The flowers are in their natural colors.

Katherine Albert, one of Hollywood's fashion dictators, declares that when hand-painted trims are used no hands should be worn, not even a ribbon to separate the brim from the crown.

Miss Luella Belvin, manager of the Landre's Shoppe, attended the Style Show in Los Angeles Tuesday. Miss Belvin made a beautiful selection of millinery which will be on display Saturday at the Landre's Shoppe, 423 North Sycamore.—Adv.

Why Weep For Good Old Days?

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Slavery, if you are weeping over the good old days that have gone forever, dry your eyes and read "The White and Gold Lady," by Foxhall Deringfield, and learn what might have happened to you had you been in the dainty blue satin shoes of the Colonel's lady in a Kentucky town in the 'eighties.

Kentucky has always been noted for its blooded horses and its beautiful women. That little has been said of its Don Juans is significant, for Don Juans have not been indigenous to Kentucky. They have come from the East, in the 'eighties in many a clime. If, as Edith Wharton calls it, it was the Age of Innocence, innocence, it would seem, did not concern itself greatly with the men. But men of the day made a cast iron code that certainly concerned itself with their women.

Take for instance the episode of one Belle Gordon, who kept a "house" on Half street.

Mrs. Ashwood was giving a breakfast at a hotel to which all the bluebloods were invited. Belle's horse threw her against a fountain in the square while the horrified guests looked on, yet not a man stirred a foot to go to her as she lay dying. The Colonel's lady, whipping up her horses over the head of a reluctant coachman, went to her aid, and thereafter had to go through a sort of social purging before her contaminated presence could be received again in the town.

When the gentle, high-spirited Colonel's lady sought solace from her sorrows and her unfaithful husband, in a clear-eyed student who was "one good man," the Colonel began to think of his "honors."

We haven't quite come to the single standard, but sauce for the gander and sauce for the goose are having more similarity of flavoring these days. There is decidedly an improvement over the 'eighties in the attitude of husbands and wives—a sense of fair play. When any community boasts of the honor of its women now, it would be likely to add, "and men."

BEAUTY TALKS

Copyright by United Feature Syndicate. All Rights Reserved. Reproductions Prohibited.

A Healthy Scalp
With the exception of the complexion the hair and scalp seem to be the greatest of beauty problems.

Poor health and circulation will never make the hair healthy or beautiful. A great deal of time and money is spent on local treatments for scalp conditions. If something is wrong inside, you eventually find that they do not give permanent results. You should consult your physician and find where the real trouble lies. If you know that the general condition of your health is not good, wouldn't it be better to consult the physician first? Scalp treatments along with the general building up of your physical tone will help. But one without the other can do no good at all.

It is never too early to start the scalp massage habit. Brushing the hair is another important factor. The correct way to massage the scalp is to place the thumbs at the sides of the head over the ears. Spread the fingers of both hands over the front of the scalp. Massage by rotating the scalp under the fingers, making imaginary circles on the scalp. Do not rub the surface of the scalp, but move the skin itself. Massage the crown and the back of the head with the same movement. This should be done for several minutes. Place the fingers of the right hand on top of the head and with the other hand massage with a jerky forward and backward movement from the hair line up to the crown all around the left side of the scalp. Change the position of the hands and massage the other side in the same way. This massage should be given for at least ten to fifteen minutes.

Massaging the scalp is the first step in caring for the hair.

CHURCH WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME WEDDINGS CLUBS FRATERNAL FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

ELEANOR VOLAND ELLIOTT

The WOMAN'S DAY-ALLIANCE SUMMER

It takes a courageous mother to leave the world's censure offering to give away her baby, that she can "see the world." At that's exactly what Mrs. Jones of Ponca City, Okla., wants to do. The baby boy, known as "Baby Boy," is a perfect specimen, "is less than a month old." "We don't want a baby now," say the mother and father. "We want to see all the world in the union and so far we've only seen all but five. We don't let a baby keep us from the last five."

TOO EXPENSIVE
The Joneses explain, too, that they can't afford a baby. Just ask of the gasoline and tires it will take for those five states. Besides, Mrs. Jones wants "a car." She says that she would "let die" if she stayed home with baby all day. Her "career" so far has been employment in a laundry. So they are hunting a car for little Bobby Jean Jones.

MAKES 'EM MAD
Nothing will so infuriate border women, and men, too, as this cry. Even the mother's courage braving this denunciation will be no hand. To think that a headstrong girl would dare to tell men of experience that seeing a state is more important than baby boy!

WHY IT IS
Granted that they are right, of course, and that a baby is more important, sometimes one wonders the rage of mothers, who act in orthodox manner towards their spring by yielding up their lives to them, towards those who do not, is not self-protection for themselves. In other words, if their lot is hard they can least make it glorious by putting a premium upon their job and stating that all other women act the job with the same enthusiasm.

WOMAN'S NERVE
Another self-titled "American" has been caught. Dorothy at least so she calls herself, is in one of Brussels' most fashionable hotels until her hotelier got suspicious of her. Inquiry brought forth the revelation she had cashed about 100 worth of bad checks in the hotel of Europe. Now she is in an old medieval jail at Brussels. Do we hear of more women imposters than men? I believe we do. Perhaps it's just a little different version of the man nerve which will almost invariably dare more than the nerve of men.

HIS MOTHER
The terrible responsibility of having children unless one is physically and mentally fit is illustrated by Mrs. Eva Hickman, mother of Edward Hickman who confessed to killing little Ma Parker of Los Angeles. The late one read "Mother Once in a While Hospital," one knew the answer. Poor mother, she! Probably she had no knowledge of her weak spots till after Edward was born, but innocent sufferer for the family and everyone!

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCKMAN—PICTURES BY MORRIS

(Read The Story, Then Color The Picture)

"Was pitch dark in the cave right now. The flashlight had gone out somehow, and all the Tinsies snuggled away till they were rested well. About six hours went drifting by. Then Clowdy woke up with a cry. 'Hey, hey! Where are we, Tinymites?' Oh, how that lad could yell!

His voice, of course, 'woke all the rest. Said Coppy, 'Look at me! I'm dressed. I thought that I was tucked in bed. I guess it was a dream. Now I remember where we are. We're in a cave. We've traveled far. When you have been asleep a while, how queer it makes it seem."

Then Scouty found their one flashlight and turned it on and made things bright. 'Let's move on down this passageway. I'm feeling fine,' said he. The bunch agreed this plan was good. They all jumped up as best they could. They walked along and sang a song, as happy as could be. 'Oh, we are cheerful Tinymites, far underground to see the sights. Jack Frost's the one who sent us here. He is a good old scout. We seek adventures every day. We love to work. We love to play. Down here we're going to have some fun, we haven't any doubt.' Then Clowdy broke right in and said, 'Oh, look, I see a light ahead. There must be someone down here, or we're coming back to earth. Perhaps we've walked so far around that we've returned to

YOST BROADWAY THEATRE
Kipling's "Take me somewhere East of Suez, where the best is like the worst, where there ain't no Ten Commandments, and a man can raise a thirst," might well have been sung of old San Francisco's Chinatown and Barbary Coast, and it is these regions that recreate for us in the thrilling and uncannily realistic "Old San Francisco," starring Dolores Costello and featuring Warner Oland. The picture opens tonight at the Yost Broadway.

WEST END THEATRE
Dreadful horsemanship brought Buzz Barton, 13-year-old western star, to the attention of screen officials, and his remarkably daring riding before the camera materially helped him to win distinction as the youngest western player of stellar rank in the motion picture industry today.

His first picture, "The Boy Rider," was immediately followed by a second, "The Slingshot Kid," which is now running at the West End theater.

WEST COAST WALKER
"Old Ironsides" opened yesterday at the West Coast-Walker.

In filming the story of Old Ironsides, the producers concentrated on the campaign against the Barbary pirates who in lieu of tribute seized merchant vessels, enslaved their crews and wronged their women. The infant United States alone dared to dispute their way in Congress "millions for defense but not one cent for tribute." For purposes of dramatic unity the highlights which covered a considerable period have been consolidated into one series of events taking place within the space of a few hours, otherwise, the reproduction is vouched for as being historically accurate.

'BROADWAY,' NOTED PLAY, HERE TONIGHT

"Broadway," the saga of the hoofers and hijackers who people the night clubs of New York, comes to the Yost Spurgeon theater here tonight, following a 16 weeks successful engagement in Los Angeles. The outstanding hit of the 1926-27 season in New York, "Broadway" has the most universal appeal of any play produced within the past five years. With its gunplay, its color, its turbulence, and its juxtaposition of tragedy and comedy, "Broadway" presents a racy, graphic picture of the noise and clatter and gaiety and sin and music of the New York cabarets where throng the bored and the inebriated, the quick and the dead, the "high hats" and the lowbrows.

JACK LOCKWELL

By Patten

Jerry Binnott's fighting blood was up at last. Lockwell was the one fellow in the school who had stood by him staunchly, and now Jerry was ready to fight for Jack—and with him—against the whole world. With a tigerish pounce, he got one of the trio by the neck and flung him, spinning, into a corner. Lockwell's foot crashed against the chin of another.

Then Lockwell slipped like an eel from the hands of the third thug, and slugged him while both were on their knees. The fellow lurched, crumpled and became quiet.

"You're correct, buddy," said the Leaping Kangaroo. "It's time we were going away from here." "Stop!" cried a voice. A uniformed officer was in the doorway.

It was the nightwatch of the town. Instantly, Binnott seized a chair, whirled it over his head and flung it at the hanging lamp. There was a crash, followed by darkness. "Come on, Jack!" yelled Jerry in Lockwell's ear. In that darkness, they swept the officer aside and plunged down the stairs. A figure sprang before them as they fled past a street lamp.

THE EXIGENCY OF CIRCUMSTANCES IN CHICAGO

According to news dispatches Chicago is to have a picture theater in which all the victims of thugs, holdups, and plug-uglies are to be the free audience and the movies are to be made up of the suspected perpetrators of the crimes. This is done with the idea that the victims may be able to pick out the particular thug that perpetrated the crime. Of course it is not expected that the theater will be built large enough to hold all these people at any one time but they will have different hours, probably, for performance, highway robberies may be at three o'clock, burglaries at five-thirty, assaults, possibly at seven o'clock.

A CHANGE OF SPIRIT

There is a man to be hung at Winnipeg and he is to be hung in a yard so close to the University of Manitoba that the students from upper windows can look over and view the spectacle. The authorities have threatened with expulsion any of the students who do this.

We would not criticize them. Maybe the authorities are right, and yet there is a certain morbid curiosity which disappears when satisfied and we can well imagine that one sight would be enough. We are glad, however, of the condition of mind of the management of the university that this suggestion signifies. We can remember the day when bayonet practice was indulged in by all the young men of Canada and elsewhere and the only requirement left to complete the horror was the slight imagination that the stuffed bag was a German. It would horrify us now as much as this hanging, and it ought to.

CALLING A SPADE A SPADE

Tom Taggart, the Democratic boss of Indiana, says that Evans Woolen will beat Al Smith out as a candidate for the Presidency on the Democratic ticket. Shouldn't wonder, though we never heard of Evans Woolen; we have heard of Indianapolis, however, so that helps.

Taggart, of course, is not opposed to Smith because he is "wet," in fact this suggestion doesn't mean that Taggart is opposed to him at all, but he is simply proposing to use this man Woolen to get the delegates from Indiana for trading purposes. Any other name would be as valuable for Taggart as Woolen.

But when Senator Heflin, of Alabama, was speaking Tuesday evening to the National Women's Democratic Law Enforcement League in Washington, what he said concerning Smith has a good deal more significance, for Heflin is a "dry" Democrat, and incidentally seems to have the same fear that the Pope is going to take Washington, that Big Bill Thompson had that George the Fifth is about to capture the windy city. Heflin made this statement concerning Smith:

"What intelligent person will claim that Governor Smith's opposition to the Eighteenth Amendment and his efforts to make it null and void in the state of New York make him a suitable and desirable person to execute the prohibition laws under the Eighteenth Amendment for the United States."

WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO BOSTON?

A writer in the January Harper's has made the inquiry "what has happened to Boston." The article is clever, and in many respects it is true. Boston, like so many other places with a background of history and culture, has forgotten that the future is not in the past, with the result that it is losing its prestige and its leadership both in the domain of letters and of business and trade. "Time was," says this writer, "when Boston used to create literature; now through the unintelligent zeal of some public officials Boston is not permitted to read literature."

Someone facetiously remarked that Boston was never a place, but simply a state of mind. The joker has always had his little joke about Boston. Boston has reason to be proud of a great many things in its past. It has played a most important part in the affairs of the nation. To be held up to ridicule is not a pleasant experience. It hurts, and it is hard to answer. But if to see ourselves as others see us is the first step in reformation and advancement, the people of Boston have reason to thank the writer of this article for kicking them upstairs.

There is nothing so deadly as a smug and self-satisfied complacency. That is always the danger besetting those having a glorious past. Boston has had more of it than was good for it; and its citizens might well read with profit the article referred to, even though it is a bit provoking.

LORD CECIL AND MELLON SHOULD GET TOGETHER

The testimony of good business and of good morals all is on the side of disarmament and however it may be accomplished we cannot hope for permanent peace nor to lighten the burden on the backs of the taxpayer until that is accomplished.

It will be remembered that Lord Robert Cecil was minister of blockade during the war. In this position he came into conflict with the United States before we entered the war. However, he so conducted negotiations as to at least prevent dangerous conflict, even in ideas. He resigned from the Baldwin cabinet because he did not believe in the militaristic policy of the government.

A short time ago Lord Cecil, in an interview with a representative of the Christian Science Monitor, speaking on disarmament and peace, said in part: "The first step toward peace is disarmament. Without that, by which I mean the reduction and limitation of armaments by international agreement, there can be no hope of enduring peace in Europe."

"What I would like to speak about now is the moral obligation for disarmament resting upon European nations, and the danger that will inevitably result if this obligation is not discharged. If the solemn declarations of authorized representatives of sovereign nations have any significance or any validity, Great Britain, in common with the other parties to the Versailles Covenant, is already pledged to a material reduction of armaments. Germany was disarmed under the distinct agreement that the other nations of western Europe would likewise disarm. Not the principle but merely the extent and method of disarmament remain to be agreed upon, and while the principle stands, nothing has been done to give it effect....

"If there is war anywhere there will be war everywhere.... Some of our English people seem to think that peace schemes for continental Europe are matters with which we have little concern, and participation in which on our part is pure altruism designed to help our neighbors but destitute of profit to ourselves. Your people seem to hold this view even more strenuously. But it is a wholly mistaken one. Any quarrel which may lead to war is a worldwide menace and there should be machinery available which would prevent its development."

We believe this is succinctly and strongly put. Now comes Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and shows us that 82 cents of the tax dollar is paid for war purposes. He shows in his annual report that more than 51 cents of every dollar goes directly to meet the public debt and that debt was practically all contracted during the World War. He then proceeds to show that 32 cents more is used for actual military expenditures now.

He says in commenting on this, "When the average citizen grumbles over the size of his income tax payment he often visualizes his hard-earned money being spent by the government to compile reports on business or agriculture conditions, or to erect public buildings, send diplomats abroad, carry on scientific investigation or make and enforce law."

"One-half of each tax dollar is used for the service of the public debt, the equivalent of 20 cents being required for interest and premium payments and 30 cents for debt retirement. All but seventeen cents of the remaining one-third of the taxpayer's dollar is spent on military expenditures for national defense or payments to military veterans."

"Though each past war left a legacy of debt for posterity to meet these sums would have been met and paid off by now, under the post-war retirement payments that have been going on. The largest item on public debt in 1927 is the 21.1 cents from each tax dollar expended for interest."

"The 13.8 cents labeled 'statutory retirements' is the proportion put aside by legislative action earmarked for debt retirement. The remaining 16.2 cents is the additional debt retirement in 1927 made possible from Uncle Sam's surpluses."

Certainly no further figures are necessary for evidence to prove the folly of war from the taxpayer's point of view. Maybe it wouldn't be a bad plan for Lord Cecil and Secretary Mellon to formulate a plan for future peace that would appeal to both the idealist and the taxpayer.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

CHILDREN'S VOICES
There is something wrong with the voices of our children. Their tones are those of the screeching, grinding machines of the age. They are loud and insistent and most unmusical.

And yet we need pleasant voices. A musical voice, pleasant tones, gracious in their quality, are a passport to high places. Machines are wonderful creations. They make life speedier, easier, more comfortable. But theirs is not the voice of beauty. That voice belongs to humanity. Are we to lose it altogether?

Nobody has ever discovered what makes our voices so shrill, so screechy, so unmusical. Many reasons have been given for it but the only one that I have not discarded as yet is a very flattering one. I think we speak that way because we don't know any better.

In the home, mother screeches, father growls, the children scream. Outside the home the mother screeches, father growls, children scream. If you tell them that their voices leave much to be desired they will answer tartly that if you don't like it you needn't listen. The children will look at you uncomprehendingly and, because they are children, keep still. They simply don't know that they scream and screech and growl.

We will have to teach by practice and precept and theory that there is a right way and a wrong way of speaking. We will have to make an attractive voice a thing to be coveted. As it is now, the children hear one so rarely that they do not know it for what it is, a precious gift from a fairy godmother.

Listen to the shop keeper as she sells you a pound of prunes. Listen to the street car conductor as he asks his passengers to move up in front. Listen to the mother telling Henry to hurry in for his lunch. Listen to Henry as he tells her he will be there in a minute. Listen to the teacher tell the class that they are to pay a little attention and get the next one right. We are all squeezing the tones against the roof of the mouth, stretching our mouths from ear to ear and rasping out the words. The children cannot help it. They have to imitate the voices about them. Their words are ours. What shall we do?

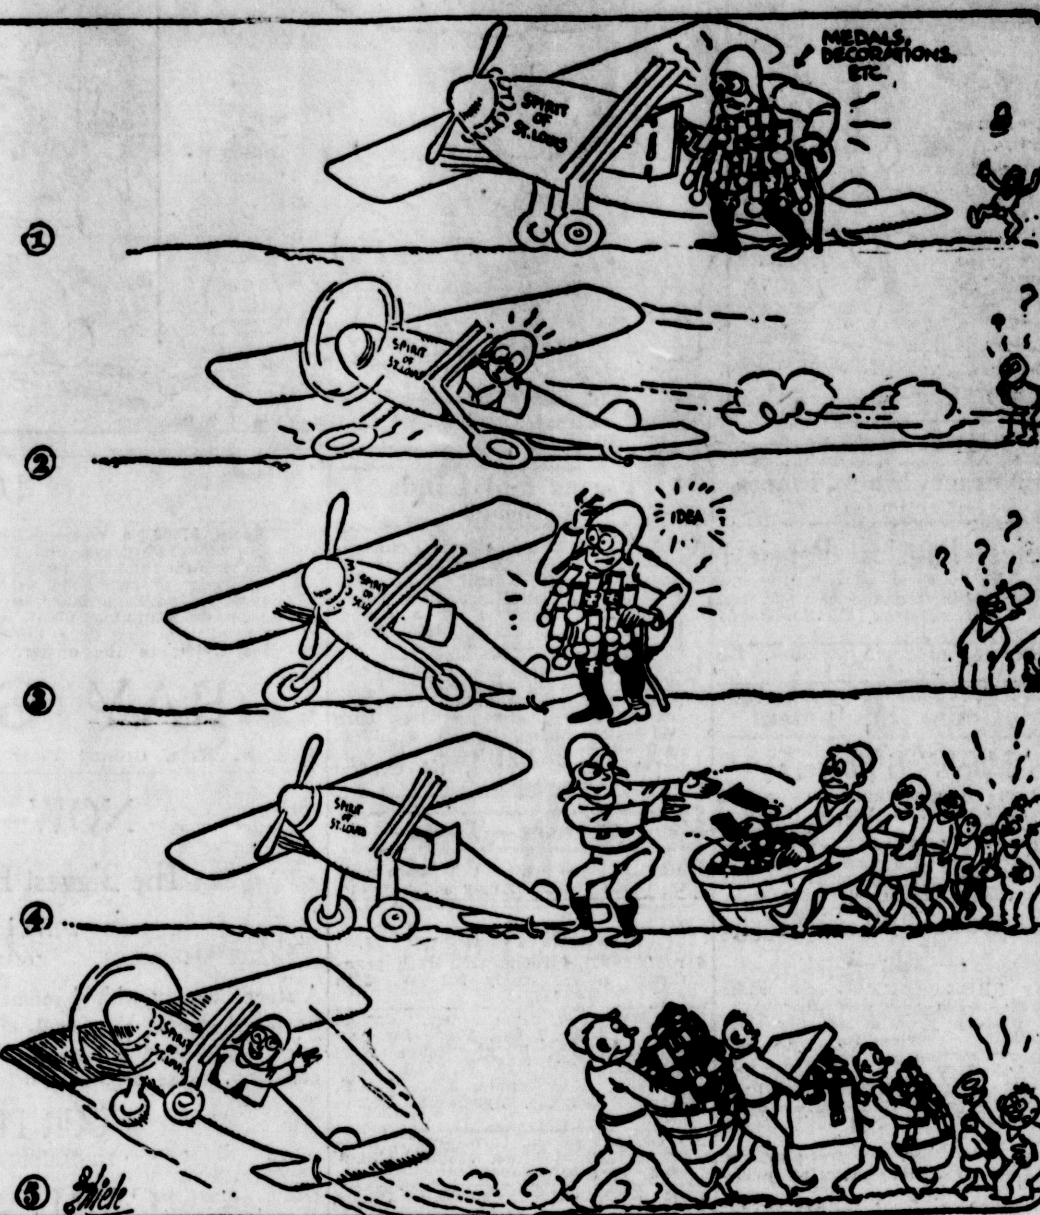

Listen to good singers and catch the tone. Watch their mouths, their throats. Notice how they relax when they speak or sing. No squeezing, no rasping. Ease and perfect flow. Go to a few lectures on voice training and voice placing. Require the teachers in the public schools to cultivate a good speaking voice and to know how to help their pupils acquire one.

Practice the vowel sounds until you can make them coo and twitter and sob and storm and trill. It is the vowel sounds that give the music to the words. Then practice the rhythmic flow of speech. Tell a little story to yourself in the mirror, watch for any tension and release it at once; listen for any sharpness or shilliness and practice the vowel sounds that correct it. A pleasing voice is a fairy gift. Be your own fairy.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)

Lindy "Takes Off"—A Future Possibility

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

ABREAST OF THE TIMES

Bill Smith was a butcher for seventeen years
And he drove such a prosperous trade
Delivering sections of farm fattened steers
That a big pot of money he made.
His business still brings him in profits galore
But his trade has become a career,
And William Jones Smith is a butcher no more
He now is a Beef Engineer.

Tom Green was a tinker a few years ago
His way through the streets he would wend,
And pause at the houses on Poverty Row
To call for old kettles to mend.
But J. Thomas Green is the dignified name
Which he uses to make it quite clear—
That at last he's abandoned the tinkering game
And become a Repairs Engineer.

Jack Brown filled my car, just a little while back
Down the old country turnpike a piece,
He kept a garage in a sooty old shack
And his clothing was rigid with grease.
But now when I meet him politely I bow,
He is making ten thousand a year
For he is an Expert in Lubricants now
As well as a Gas Engineer.

The trade that I follow wins little respect
It is looked on with scanty regard
By the lofty elite and the haughty elect—
They have got little use for a bard.
But although my income at present is lean
I hope to enhance it next year
And I give notice now that hereafter I mean
To be known as a Verse Engineer!

The Unregenerates

Slowly, very slowly, but surely, the young German republic seems to be making progress. The longer it lasts, the more chance it has to stand on its own feet. But its enemies within are far more dangerous than its enemies without. All the old Junker class, all the court sycophants, all the monocled officers, all those who lost place and prestige with the vanishing of the monarchy, are still sighing for the good old days. How persistent they are is shown by an incident that occurred recently. In the barracks of one of the Reichswehr regiments the following pronouncement against pacifism was painted on the wall:

"War never again,
"Means nevermore victory,
"Means nevermore freedom,
"Means slavery."

Uncommon Sense

More About Lindbergh

Lindbergh's continued popularity is due to the fact that he has not allowed himself to be inflated with popularity.

Popular heroes have come and gone.
We think Mr. Lindbergh will stay.

Shortly after his arrival in America he was asked by a very youthful reporter:

"How does it feel to be a great hero?"

"If you are going to ask fool questions like that," he replied, "I won't talk to you anymore."

It was a highly sane reply. Many men would have said either "I am gratified by the esteem of my fellow citizens," or, with false modesty, "Why, really, I am not a hero."

Lindbergh made the right answer.

There are other reasons for admiring this young man, who carries himself as well as his plane carried him.

He learned his job before he attempted any spectacular feats. He worked hard learning to fly, profiting by all his mishaps.

While he was learning to fly, he was also learning the mechanics of his business. When he goes up in a plane he knows that the plane is in condition.

In Mexico, when President Calles was asked if he wasn't afraid to make a flight, he replied, "Not with Lindbergh."

The success of this level-headed youngster does not mean that every boy ought to take up flying. It is a profession requiring a special kind of ability.

Lindbergh was born with this. But the term "lucky" is mis-applied to him.

He has one of the greatest qualities which make for success, and that is determination.

As soon as he made up his mind to become a flyer, he also made up his mind to learn flying literally from the ground up.

And it is because he has learned it, that he has become such a brilliant success.

It is fortunate for the youth of today that they can have a hero of this sort.

Too often the hero of the day is a prize fight champion, whose business is about as useful as that of a bulldog who is kept in a kennel till he can be matched with another dog.

Lindbergh picked a new and growing business, and he has become its most brilliant exponent. Moreover, he has proved that even a young man can be greatly successful without losing his head, or fancying himself a marvel.

The propaganda to stop him from flying is foolish. He is born to fly, and no other pursuit will satisfy him for many years. And every time he leaves the ground the hopes of more than half the world go with him.

Lights of New York

By GRANT DIXON

The Human Skeleton
NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Latest news from musical circles is the astounding one that Paul Whiteman who has been reducing for four weeks has lost thirty-four pounds, weighing only a puny two hundred and fifty-five now. Paul has just been cutting down on certain foods, still eats plenty of meat, but doesn't indulge after evening performances.

Free Air
Banks are not usually press agents as being the most healthy place in this world, but there's one sample of finance down Wall Street that is. The bank, taking a tip from army experiments, has chlorinated the washed and refined air as a preventive for colds and a cure for mild bronchial ailments. If the lobby chairs were many and not so carefully watched the bank might find itself turned into a veritable sanatorium.

High Art
Last summer the tall and lovely shafts of the Savoy-Plaza and Sherry Netherland Hotels at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-ninth street were completed and added a graceful touch to the skyline. Now at the lake in Central Park on nice days you will find at least one or two artists with stool and easel sketching the hotels. A favorite view is from the small bridge at the west end of the lake. Virtually every studio in New York carries one or more sketches, in charcoal, water color or oils, of these two hotels.

The Emperor O'Neill
At a recent Philharmonic Concert, Ernest Schelling the eminent pianist, conducted his own symphonic poem entitled "Morocco." It was a very interesting composition and its many African rhythms seemed to captivate Eugene O'Neill who sat listening down in the fourth row. Mr. O'Neill, whose play "Emperor Jones" will be remembered for the relentless beat of the tom-tom through its colorful scenes, has one pure white lock of hair on his left temple.

Home Across the Sea
While on a visit to the United States as a member of the Farouk of the Royal Commission of Ethiopia which hopes to persuade President Coolidge to send a diplomatic representative to Ethiopia, K. Masfian is making a tour of the theaters in New York. Mr. Masfian heads a group of Ethiopians who are establishing a theater at the capitol, Adis Ababa, which will be the first playhouse in the history of the country. They are hoping to present plays written, acted and produced entirely by natives. If possible they will only revert to western methods in lighting and handling scenery, and use their own playwriting and acting material with out occidental assistance. Mr. Masfian told me he was very interested in watching our actors make up, explaining however, that in Ethiopia his actors would have to wear masks.

Empty Literature
I am told by a book clerk that false books are having a considerable vogue in New York now. Where, no so long ago, anyone desiring the semblance of books and not the substance, discreetly dropped his voice to a whisper when asking for bookshelves without sides or leaves—now he can boldly demand them for I have been assured the very best people are doing it.

One company that manufactures bookshelves which were filled with prop volumes just to show the prospective customer how the book would look in case, had so many calls for the bookshelves themselves that they have put in an extensive stock of them and are doing a prosperous business.

These false books are bought by the set but by the yard. If they are to fill a case which is within reach of a reader they are made rather dull and uninteresting subject title so as to avoid being looked into. If they are to be placed on the top shelf it's safe to make them a little snappier in binding and in titling.

The customers are sometimes "book lovers" with an eye for bigger display than their purses can afford. They build their bookcases to the ceiling with the hope of filling them up someday, at temporarily fit out the top shelves with false books.

Hotel Lodgings
In answer to the question where do sailors go when they are ashore, now that the Central Park is frozen over, I have discovered in Fulton street, Brooklyn, and extending from Henry street to the old Fulton ferry—a row of hosteleries for the exclusive use of sea-going gentlemen.

In the lobbies of these hotels are occasional ships lanterns or a fully carved brig or frigate on a mantel. These two touches are the only ones to brighten the interior except one of those stoves—familiar and anciently known as—canonball. Here on cold nights, wily winds from the waterfront rattling the window panes, old sailor swap tales that would bring a blush to the cheek of Sinbad.

The Ginger Cookie Smell

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

OFTEN smells and odors will bring to memory things we would otherwise never recall. Certain smells we connect definitely with events and places and they are never erased. The fragrance of flowers, the odors of certain things cooking we associate with something in the past either pleasantly or otherwise and they have their effect upon us. A man said to me, "Thank God for a mother who maintained an old fashioned cookie jar instead of a bag from the baker, always the smell of warm baking things brings to mind boyish associations. I'm a better man for the memory!"

GRANDMOTHER's finger perfumed much
With lavender and eucalyptus.
"There's nothing like a deep red rose
For fragrance," says Aunt Doris.

Grandmother loves the smell of hay
In new mown fields of clover,
It takes him back "With sixty year,"
To his boyhood over.

But when I'm coming home from school,
Or in the garden raining,
There's nothing quite so fine to smell
As ginger cookies baking.

I must not see them often and brown
And say to my dog, Snooty,
"Come on, old fellow, let's go buy
A big brown ginger cookie!"
